Moon Explorers End Long Trip; Greet Families

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Apollo 15's astronauts, reunited with their families after a month's separation, today start the long series of debriefings that will give scientists, engineers and doctors the minute details of their historic moon journey.

In the Lunar Receiving Laboratory, geologists are preparing to open the first of the moon rock boxes the astronauts returned from Hadley Base.

David R. Scott, James B. Irwin and Alfred M. Worden spend the morning undergoing extensive medical examination. In the afternoon they shift to technical sessions to answer questions about the 12-day voyage that took Scott and Irwin to the surface of the moon for 67 hours of exploration among the highest lunar mountains and along an ancient canyon.

Following splashdown Saturday, doctors aboard the recovery carrier Okinawa pronounced the astronauts in good condition.

An Air Force C141 transport flew the astronauts from Hawaii to nearby Ellington Air Force Base Sunday night, and the men rushed into the embrace of their families—a first for a moon-landing crew.

The three previous crews had to spend three weeks in quarantine, but experts concluded that moonmen bring back no harmful germs and eliminated the isolation for Apollo 15.

So Scott and Irwin rushed into the arms of their wives and daughters. Worden, who is divorced, clutched his two daughters. It was the first time the astronauts had been with their families since the Fourth of July weekend.

A crowd of about 2,500 who braved a drizzling rain cheered and waved banners and flags while a band in Scottish kilts played "Fly Me to the Moon."

Scott told the assemblage that he saw the full moon from the Okinawa Sunday before dawn.

"As I looked at it, I felt a little homesick," he said. "If you go some place as beautiful and as fascinating as that and you spend three very intense days, you really get attached to it."

Irwin told the crowd, which included several Space Center workers, that he thought often while in space of "the genius that created such beautiful machinery, the people who put it all together and finally the people on the ground who helped us operate it."

Arriving with the astronauts were about 100 pounds of moon rocks, sealed in airtight containers. The first 75 pounds came here on an earlier plane and were transported to the Lunar Receiving Laboratory.

DETROIT (AP) — Overcoming the Vietnam war injury that took his left leg, husky Blackfoot Indian John Gobert has blazed a trail bringing health services to his Indian brethren in the isolated village of Supai, 2,400 feet below the rim of the Grand Canyon.

Now 29 years old, Gobert was born and raised on an Indian reservation at Browning, Mont. He joined the Navy in 1960, and during his second tour of duty in Vietnam in 1965 he lost his leg when he stepped on a land mine.

After 10 months in a Naval hospital learning to walk on a false leg, Gobert returned to civilian life.

In 1969, he took a pioneering assignment with the U.S. Indian Health Service in Arizona. The job was to bring medical care and public health programs to the 300 Havasupai Indians living in almost complete isolation down the steep cliffs of the Grand Canyon.

After hurriedly taking courses from the U.S. Public Health Service at Phoenix and Tucson, Ariz., on health care, Gobert spent 18 months in Supai offering what medical help he could and arranging to have the seriously ill removed to the nearest town—80 miles away—by helicopter.

As a result of his success, the U.S. Public Health Service has organized a program of training Indians to bring medical services to some of the most isolated tribes in the western part of the nation.

Gobert, who is helping to coordinate the training and placement of 10 new Indian medics, has been named the year's Outstanding Disabled American Veteran by the 350,000-member Disabled American Veterans.

Some 3,000 delegates of the group are in Detroit for their annual convention.

In addition to operating a medical clinic and public health program, Gobert spent many hours in Supai traveling the treacherous cliff trails on horseback to make house calls.

Gobert won the confidence of the villagers—"a real tribute" to him, explains Dr. Charles S. McCammon, medical director of the Phoenix area Indian Health Service, "for the Havasupai people are not noted for their acceptance of outsiders." Gobert modestly discounts any difficulties in achieving acceptance by the Havasupais.

"I could have had two heads and three arms on one side as long as I could look after their health," he said.

Generator Failure Could Have Led To U.S. Casualties

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional report says hundreds of electric generators that broke down in combat in Vietnam were sold to the U.S. government under "a tangled web of contractor influence over Marine Corps personnel."

The report, released Sunday by the House Armed Services investigating subcommittee, said: "The defective generators adversely affected the Marine Corps combat capability in Vietnam, and may have contributed to combat casualties."

The subcommittee said the report, dealing "for the most part, with petty corruption in low places," has been turned over to the Justice Department for possible prosecution.

"The persons involved might be classified as minor public officials, yet they effectively controlled the spending of millions of taxpayers' dollars," the report said.

Makers of the generators said their products met all government requirements and blamed the problem on untrained Marine mechanics.

Built by the Consolidated Diesel Electric Co. of Old Greenwich, Conn., the generators turned up with missing pistons, loose screws, frayed wiring and cracked fuel tanks, according to the report.

It said within seven months after shipment, the first 300 units sent to Vietnam were out of commission.

Failure of the generators, designed to power radar units for spotting enemy mortars near Danang, may have led to Marine casualties, the report said.

Since 1967, the report said, Consolidated has been awarded four contracts totaling more than $27 million to build 7,000 generators.

Daniel Elmore, a civilian contracting official for the Marine Corps, and a man described as his friend, Daniel Ross, Consolidated's Washington representative, were named by investigators as principals in the case.

Elmore, the report said, got his job when Ross told him of an upcoming opening in the Pentagon.

Even after defects began appearing in the generators, Elmore approved awarding an option for $3.4 million in additional generator contracts, the report said.

Later, another close friend of Ross', Jennings McLain, engineered approval of a contract to Consolidated for a different type generator despite lower bids submitted by two competitors, the report said.

McLain, at the time director of the Marine Corps procurement division, later did legal work for Ross, the report said.

Subcommittee investigators estimated repairs to all the faulty generators would cost $2.6 million.

In its statement denying any wrongdoing, Consolidated said, "All generator sets were built to government specifications and under government supervision."

USSR, India Sign 20-Year Peace Treaty

Inking Of Pact Aligns Soviets Against Pakistan

NEW DELHI (AP) — India and the Soviet Union signed a 20-year treaty of "peace, friendship and cooperation" today which in effect put the Russians firmly on the side of the Indians in their potentially explosive dispute with Pakistan.

Foreign Minister Swaran Singh said the treaty should provide a "stabilizing factor in favor of peace" in Asia. "It is also a treaty of nonaggression," he told cheering members of parliament when he informed them of the pact signed two hours earlier by him and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

The 12-article treaty does not commit either country to give military aid automatically to the other in the event of an attack by a third nation. Instead, the key ninth article says: "Each high contracting party undertakes to abstain from providing any assistance to any third party that engages in armed conflict with the other party."

"In the event of either party being subjected to an attack or a threat thereof, the high contracting parties shall immediately enter into mutual consultations in order to remove such threat and to take appropriate effective measures to ensure peace and the security of their countries."

Singh told Parliament: "This should act as a deterrent to any powers that may have aggressive intentions."

Ohio Bell Requests Rate Boost

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Bell Telephone Co. today filed a rate increase request with the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio that would boost the company's income by $165 million annually.

Ohio Bell asked in its request that it be permitted to hike local telephone rates by as much as $3 monthly and to increase charges for intrastate long distance calls in the 47 communities it serves throughout the state.

If the increases are approved, it would be the firm's second increase in the past 16 months. Raises that netted $55 million after taxes were approved in April, 1970. The new proposal would bring in about $83 million after taxes.

Ohio Bell Vice President C.K. Esler said Sunday that the effects of inflation have brought higher installation and maintenance costs, higher interest costs and increases in wages and employee benefits.

Esler said the recent contract settlement that will cost the company about $60 million over the next three years was only a part of the financial problem facing Ohio Bell.

Inflation and expansion of facilities that will see Ohio Bell spend about $760 million over the next three years for additional switching equipment and outside cables also figured into the need for rate increases, he said.

"As a result," Esler said, "We must seek higher rates in order to continue to provide the kind of quality service our customers want."

Ohio Bell's proposals would result in increases for individual line residence service ranging from $1.95 monthly in Newcomerstown in Tuscarawas County to $3 monthly in Cleveland.

Two-party flat rate service for the two cities would be increased by $1.60 to $2.40 monthly, while two-party measured service—which is offered only in Cleveland—would be increased by $1.85 monthly, with customers being charged an additional 14 cents for each call over the number permitted under that service.

Rates in some of the larger cities stand now at $6.60 monthly in Akron, Toledo and Dayton; $6.30 monthly in Canton and Youngstown; $6.80 monthly in Columbus and $7.85 monthly in Cleveland.

Other changes the company has proposed include:

— Increases ranging between $4.30 and $7.00 monthly for unmeasured business service.

— Increases ranging between $3.20 and $4.05 monthly for mea-

Ohio House Will Debate Probate Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — While Senate committees continue to struggle with nagging biennial tax and budget issues this week, floor action is scheduled on a probate reform bill which triggered angry debate in the Ohio House last June.

The legislation originally proposed increasing from $3,000 to $5,000 the size of estates which can be distributed to heirs without probate administration.

But House Democrats introduced on the floor June 30 a surprise amendment increasing the size of estates exempted from probate to $10,000.

Republican legislator-lawyers furiously opposed the change, but were ruled out of order in the commotion, and the bill was approved 64-26.

Sen. Ronald Mottl, the prime sponsor, says he has persuaded both Democrats and Republicans to go back to a $5,000 limit. Although he was elated with the House amendment, Mottl feels agreement must be reached on the $5,000 exemption limit if the bill is to gain final General Assembly approval.

Mottl said his bill, plus one approved earlier by the House, would eliminate 60 to 70 per cent of all probate cases.

The other measure authorizes married couples to execute a new form of deed on jointly-owned property under which a decedent's share of the property could be passed to the surviving spouse without probate.

Meanwhile, a six-man Senate Ways and Means subcommittee resumes study tonight of the $1.5 billion income tax package.

Chairman Michael Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, said the subcommittee has pledged to make a "policy decision" on taxes for the biennium by midweek.

A Senate Education and Health subcommittee is considering appropriations for secondary, elementary and special education, and a Senate Finance subcommittee is looking at what remains of the proposed $8.2 billion budget.

Nader Says Stans Should Resign Commerce Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Maurice Stans should resign because he sides with big business rather than the public, says consumer advocate Ralph Nader.

"I happen to think... that Secretary Stans is not a public official by any sense of the term, that he really should resign immediately," Nader said Sunday on CBS' "Face the Nation."

Nader said Stans should not be on the public payroll because he "so clearly, unabashedly represents a special, narrow, business-interest viewpoint as his statements and speeches show so clearly."

Nader said "there has to be a way citizens can have an opportunity to compel an evaluation" of the job done by Presidential appointees.

Stans was out of town and unavailable for comment.

Nader said Stans and White House assistant Peter Flanagan have been responsible for what he described as "a really marked deterioration in the Nixon administration's environmental policy" in recent months. He cited delays in promulgation of air-quality guidelines for the states.

"They in effect have failed to comply with the law... because these guidelines were supposed to be out exactly 10 days ago. That again is due to Secretary of Commerce Maurice Stans," Nader said.

"We have many officials in government who are supposed to enforce acts... and they systematically refuse to enforce them," Nader said. "If citizens cannot reach these officials by petitioning to have them censured or demoted or relieved of their jobs, then there's no incentive, no feedback for these officials to fight the pressured interests that tell them... to forget about laws when they deal with corporations."

Columbus Disturbance Brings Four Arrests

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Police reported all quiet in the Ohio State University area Sunday night after having quelled a disturbance involving some 300 young persons Saturday night.

Four persons were arrested in connection with the disturbance, which began as a protest against efforts by a fast food restaurant near the OSU campus to keep youths from loitering on its premises.

The soldier killed Sunday night, a private in the Green Howards Regiment, was the 29th person killed this year in the communal violence in Northern Ireland and the 11th British soldier. A total of 59 persons have been slain since Northern Ireland's ancient Catholic-Protestant feud erupted into new warfare during the annual parade of the Protestant Apprentice Boys in

"It is well known that civil aircraft flying at 30,000 feet or more make an ideal target for young fighter pilots under training," said a spokesman for the British pilots' association. He maintained it was "commonplace" for the military planes to approach "close enough for them to register a 'kill' and at the same time present the sort of hazard that may have caused the Japanese disaster."

He referred to the death of 163 persons in the collision of a Japanese airliner and a Japanese fighter on July 30. It was the worst disaster in aviation history.

A senior pilot of British European Airways said his plane had been "used for target practice dozens of times, especially over Germany. The fighters come down at you and then veer off at a safe distance, but most of us are worried about the possibility of something going wrong and one of them coming straight on..."

A senior pilot for Sabena, the Belgian airline, said near misses by military planes occur "all the time" and he had been buzzed by French and Belgian fighters. He said a disaster similar to the Japanese crash could "easily happen" over Europe.

Irish Terrorists Seized After Riot-Filled Weekend

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Prime Minister Brian Faulkner ordered internment without trial for guerrillas of the outlawed Irish Republican army today and banned the annual religious parades which for the past two years have inflamed the communal passions of Northern Ireland's Protestants and Roman Catholics.

British troops were reported to have arrested 200 republican and leftist leaders in house-to-house searches during the weekend in which a British soldier and an Irish truck driver were killed, violence continued today. Mobs of youths roamed the streets of Belfast, Londonderry and many suburban areas, throwing stones and gasoline and nail bombs. Snipers fired from rooftops and other rioters blocked streets with blazing cars and trucks.

Angry Catholics poured into the streets of Belfast and Londonderry at 6 a.m. to jeer at the troops and beat garbage can covers to warn neighbors of the search.

Troops and police were searching for terrorists, their equipment and documents telling of their plans. An army spokesman said the crackdown was designed to "disrupt the activities of the terrorists."

"A number of people have been taken in by us for questioning," said a police spokesman.

The soldier killed Sunday night, a private in the Green Howards Regiment, was the 29th person killed this year in the communal violence in Northern Ireland and the 11th British soldier. A total of 59 persons have been slain since Northern Ireland's ancient Catholic-Protestant feud erupted into new warfare during the annual parade of the Protestant Apprentice Boys in Londonderry on Aug. 12, 1969.

The weekend violence in Belfast began with the slaying of the driver of a delivery truck, Harry Thornton, when his vehicle backed up outside an army post. Sentries apparently believed they were being attacked and fired a fusillade of shots which killed Thornton.

Snipers' bullets injured three soldiers slightly during rioting that followed Saturday night in protest against Thornton's death.

Mobs rampaged through Belfast again Sunday night, and "the city was in a hell of a state," an army spokesman said.

Four policemen have been acquitted of violating the civil rights of two unarmed Mexican citizens killed in a "mistake" shooting.

A U.S. District Court jury returned the verdict Sunday in the third day of deliberation.

A spokesman for the 5,000-man Los Angeles police force said later "it is the verdict which we expected and anything else would have been a real shock."

Moon Rock Analysis Set

Astronauts Spared Quarantine Period

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Because no moon bugs have ever been found, the Apollo 15 astronauts are being spared the three-week quarantine that faced the past moon explorers.

But the 175 pounds of rocks David R. Scott, James B. Irwin and Alfred M. Worden brought back from the moon face a thorough analysis to make certain there is no health hazard.

And they will be probed to learn more about the unknown factors in moon rocks that seem to kill earthly microorganisms and spur or retard some plant growth.

The factors, which still aren't understood, were discovered in moon rocks returned by Apollo 11 in 1969. Samples returned by Apollo 12 and 14 also have shown biological activity.

A variety of plant species that have shown a reaction to previous lunar material will be studied.

These include celery, cabbage, brussels sprouts, pepper, carrot, lettuce, radish, spinach, club moss, fern, liverwort and algae. Tissue cultures of other plants and seedlings of lime, cotton and corn also will be studied.

When the space agency decided to eliminate the elaborate astronaut quarantine with Apollo 15 because scientists decided it was unnecessary, a "preliminary biomedical evaluation" program was outlined for Apollo 15 samples.

"Botanical investigations have definitely shown that lunar materials are capable of enhancing plant growth responses," the document outlining

British Pilots Protest European Buzzing Incidents

LONDON (AP) — British airline pilots charge that West German and French fighter planes have been buzzing them in apparent practice attacks, threatening a repeat of the recent Japanese collision disaster.

"We are extremely concerned at the number of near-misses involving military aircraft over Europe," the British Airline Pilots Association said in a statement to the Sunday Express.

"We are more disturbed that when we try to chase up these near-misses we meet a stone wall of denials every time."

The West German and French governments had no immediate comment on the accusations.

The pilots claimed that the military fliers buzzed them repeatedly and apparently locked them in their gunights before veering off. A spokesman said there were eight near-misses over West Germany last year.

"It is well known that civil aircraft flying at 30,000 feet or more make an ideal target for young fighter pilots under training," said a spokesman for the British pilots' association. He maintained it was "commonplace" for the military planes to approach "close enough for them to register a 'kill' and at the same time present the sort of hazard that may have caused the Japanese disaster."

He referred to the death of 162 persons in the collision of a Japanese airliner and a Japanese fighter on July 30. It was the worst disaster in aviation history.

A senior pilot of British European Airways said his plane had been "used for target practice dozens of times, especially over Germany. The fighters come down at you and then veer off at a safe distance, but most of us are worried about the possibility of something going wrong and one of them coming straight on..."

A senior pilot for Sabena, the Belgian airline, said near misses by military planes occur "all the time" and he had been buzzed by French and Belgian fighters. He said a disaster similar to the Japanese crash could "easily happen" over Europe.

Four Injured In Cycle-Car Accident

Four persons, including two children, were injured when their motorcycle collided with a car 4 p.m. Sunday on Mouser Road in Perry Township.

A two-car collision 6 p.m. Sunday on Route 188, just west of the East Ringgold-Northern, resulted in a citation to one of the drivers.

DEPUTY Sheriff Don Thompson cited George B. Ruble, 63, Lancaster, for driving left of center when his camper-trailer crossed the center line and struck a westbound car driven by Curtis Cloyce Dumm, 51, Route 5.

Chiropractic's Approach

Chiropractic science primarily concerns itself with the whole body, rather than the disease, or symptoms, from which the patient suffers. The body's entire built-in disease-resisting mechanism may be thrown out of gear by impingement of the nerve systems as they emerge from the spinal column. A misaligned vertebrae can cause such interference, and thus increase or decrease the function of vital nerve energy that should service the lungs, stomach, heart, kidneys, glands and other organs.

This is why, for example, a patient consulting a doctor of chiropractic for neck pain may soon find that his chronic headaches, dizziness, "bouts" of indigestion, and leg cramps mysteriously cleared up or greatly improved.

First Lady Will Tour Park Lands

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Richard M. Nixon will make a five-state, three-day trip next week to focus attention on federal lands being turned over to local governments for park and recreational use.

The White House announced the trip today.

She will be promoting the President's "Legacy of Parks" program in Virginia, Michigan, Minnesota, Oregon and California.

At each stop, Mrs. Nixon will participate in ceremonies presenting certificates of transfer to local officials for the park land and will make a tour of the areas involved.

The trip starts Monday, Aug. 16, in nearby McLean, Va., where 230 acres of federal property owned by the Department of Transportation will be turned over to the National Park Service for use as walking trails, bicycle paths, and baseball park and picnic area.

It will end Wednesday, Aug. 18, in California, where 372 acres of federal land at Border Field in San Diego and Imperial Beach will be transferred to the state of California for recreational use.

Nixon Back On Job After 2-Day Break

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon went back to work today refreshed from a New England weekend of sunning, boating, golfing and lobster.

He had no announced appointments on his White House schedule for the day.

Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker was on his way to Washington from Saigon for conferences with Nixon later this week on Vietnam. The President is expected also to meet this week with Ambassador William P. Porter, his new chief negotiator at the Paris Peace talks.

And the President dispatched Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Assistant Secretary Joseph Sisco to confer in New York today with United Nations officials on humanitarian and peacekeeping problems in Pakistan.

The chief executive had escaped a bit from pressures of his office over the weekend on a secluded 22-acre private island in Penobscot Bay, Maine. After two days there and two afternoon cruises on the bay, the President remarked, "I see why people come here."

And he made much over Maine lobsters which he said he ate at every meal.

Nixon was not only warmed by the sun but by a turnout of thousands at Manchester and Nashua, N.H., and Bangor, Maine. He made those stops Friday on his way to Mount Island, owned by his friend Jack J. Dreyfus Jr., a New York investment broker and chairman of the board of the Dreyfus Fund.

Nixon preceded three Democratic presidential hopefuls—Sens. George McGovern of South Dakota, Birch Bayh of Indiana and Henry M. Jackson of Washington, site of the first 1972 presidential primary.

DuPont Employee Attending Course

Richard H. Sill, senior process chemist with E. I. DuPont de Nemours and Co. Inc., of Circleville, is taking part in the 11th annual course in applied molecular spectroscopy now being held at Arizona State University.

The course is one of two in the nation which allows participants the opportunity to increase their skills in spectroscopy, which is the determination of quality and quantity of the composition of matter by measuring the intensity and the wave length of absorbed or emitted radiation.

With spectroscopy, scientists are able to determine factors such as the amount and kind of pollutants in air and water, minerals in the soil and the various content of meat products. Space engineers use the science to study composition of planets and police may employ it to detect narcotics and in accident investigations.

Rape Charge Dismissed In City Court

A charge of rape lodged against a Michigan man was dismissed for lack of evidence by Circleville Municipal Court Judge Sterling Lamb today.

The charge was filed against Everett Melvin Fredricks Jr. by a 21-year-old Columbus woman. It was dismissed when the woman told Judge Lamb that she could not positively identify the person.

Five other persons arrested as material witnesses by Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff were released today after the charge was dismissed.

All six men were allegedly members of a motorcycle club according to Sheriff Radcliff. The sheriff's department made the arrests early Saturday morning when the Columbus woman reported the incident.

On board the 73-foot motor-sail launch Kamalii were three unidentified men the Coast Guard says stole the vessel Friday after threatening the crew with knives and pistols.

The yachts owner, millionaire oilman E. L. "Larry" Doheny, was on the Coast Guard craft.

The Coast Guard said that after the Kamalii was intercepted shortly before midnight about 300 miles southwest of Honolulu, no attempt would be made to board it until late today. Rifles reportedly were kept aboard the yacht, which competed in the recent Trans-Pacific Yacht Race.

The capture ended a pursuit that began when the three crewmen, set adrift in a life raft 140 miles off Hawaii Saturday afternoon, were picked up unharmed five hours later by the Italian freighter Benavir.

The crewmen told the Coast Guard that the three hijackers had forced the yacht to set sail after stealing aboard at its berth Friday night.

A long-range patrol plane spotted the Kamalii Saturday night just as it tried to duck behind a squall line, the Coast Guard said. A message was dropped to it ordering the hijackers to heave to and reverse their course. The plane's crew said it saw the message retrieved but the ship didn't stop.

The Coast Guard said the hijackers were on a course to Tahiti.

Newton Manslaughter Trial Ends With Jury Deadlocked

OAKLAND, Calif., (AP) — it was 11-1 for conviction.

"This shows that with at least one black person on the jury, this means I can get a fair trial," said Newton.

Garry said he thought his client should have been acquitted.

"This shows that racism permeates through the courts and there is no question that a Black Panther party member, especially the minister of defense (Newton's current title) cannot get a fair trial," Garry said.

After six days of deliberation, a jury of 10 women and two men told Superior Court Judge Harold Hove Sunday that it was deadlocked.

First jurors had sent out a note asking they be taken for dinner, but another note followed saying: "One of the jurors no longer wishes to deliberate."

Some were near tears as the judge dismissed them and directed Newton to appear before the criminal calendar court for setting of a new trial date. He remains free on $50,000 bail. There was no immediate indication from prosecutor Donald Whyte whether the state will again seek to try the 29-year-old Newton on a charge of voluntary manslaughter in the shooting of officer John Frey on Oct. 28, 1967.

Newton was charged with first-degree murder in his first trial and was found guilty of the lesser charge of voluntary manslaughter. The jury's verdict in that trial later was overturned, however.

"A black woman kept me out of jail," said a smiling Newton, indicating he believed the only black juror, Ruthie A. Ellis, was the one of the 11-1 vote.

The jury did not indicate whether the vote was for acquittal or conviction but both Newton and defense attorney Charles Garry expressed belief

Stock Market Trading Slow

NEW YORK (AP) — Concern about the economy and dollar problems abroad kept investors on the sidelines today while stock prices skidded lower.

Trading was very slow. The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was off 4.82 at 845.79.

Among issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange declines ran ahead of advances by about 6 to 5.

First-hour volume of 2,030,000 shares on the Big Board was the lowest since last Aug. 17 when 1,650,000 shares changed hands.

Brokers attributed the inactivity to investor worries about the continuing European monetary problems involving the U.S. dollar and concern about the U.S. economy in general. They also noted that this is a slow time of the year for the market anyway.

For most key issues price changes were fractional.

The body's entire built-in disease-resisting mechanism may be thrown out of gear by impingement of the nerve systems as they emerge from the spinal column. A misaligned vertebrae can cause such interference, and thus increase or decrease the function of vital nerve energy that should service the lungs, stomach, heart, kidneys, glands and other organs.

This is why, for example, a patient consulting a doctor of chiropractic for neck pain may soon find that his chronic headaches, dizziness, "bouts" of indigestion, and leg cramps mysteriously cleared up or greatly improved.

USSR, India

But with tensions between India and Pakistan mounting steadily over the Pakistani army's repression of the independence movement in East Pakistan and the flight of 7 million East Pakistani refugees to India, the treaty could set the stage for a new confrontation in which Russia would side with India and Communists with Pakistan.

Indian officials, in briefings with newsmen, have made clear that they expect the United States also to back Pakistan, an ally with America in the Central Treaty Organization and the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

Pakistan and Peking have maintained close relations ever since China's 1962 border clashes with India, while the Soviet Union has been close to India and its main supplier of arms.

Relations between India and the United States are rapidly deteriorating also because of continued U.S. arms shipments to Pakistan. During a meeting with newsmen last week, a government spokesman said the "highest levels of the State Department and White House" were using their prestige "to shore up and back up the Pakistan regime."

The Indian and Soviet governments also have both been alarmed by the recent thaw between the Communist Chinese and American governments.

The White House announced the trip today.

Rape Charge Dismissed In City Court

A charge of rape lodged against a Michigan man was dismissed for lack of evidence by Circleville Municipal Court Judge Sterling Lamb today.

The charge was filed against Everett Melvin Fredricks Jr. by a 21-year-old Columbus woman. It was dismissed when the woman told Judge Lamb that she could not positively identify the person.

Five other persons arrested as material witnesses by Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff were released today after the charge was dismissed.

All six men were allegedly members of a motorcycle club according to Sheriff Radcliff. The sheriff's department made the arrests early Saturday morning when the Columbus woman reported the incident.

Nixon Back On Job After 2-Day Break

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon went back to work today refreshed from a New England weekend of sunning, boating, politicking and lobster.

He had no announced appointments on his White House schedule for the day.

Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker was on his way to Washington from Saigon for conferences with Nixon later this week on Vietnam. The President is expected also to meet this week with Ambassador William P. Rogers and Assistant Secretary Joseph Sisco to confer in New York today with United Nations officials on humanitarian and peacekeeping problems in Pakistan.

The chief executive had escaped a bit from pressures of his office over the weekend on a secluded 22-acre private island in Penobscot Bay, Maine. After two days there and two afternoon cruises on the bay, the President remarked, "I see why people come here."

And he made much over Maine lobsters which he said he ate at every meal.

Nixon was not only warmed by the sun but by a turnout of thousands at Manchester and Nashua, N.H., and Bangor, Maine. He made those stops Friday on his way to Minot Island, owned by his friend Jack J. Dreyfus Jr., a New York investment broker and chairman of the board of the Dreyfus Fund.

Nixon preceded three Democratic presidential hopefuls—Sens. George McGovern of South Dakota, Birch Bayh of Indiana and Henry M. Jackson of Washington, site of the first 1972 presidential primary.

DuPont Employee Attending Course

Richard H. Sill, senior process chemist with E. I. DuPont de Nemours and Col. Inc., of Circleville, is taking part in the 11th annual course in applied molecular spectroscopy now being held at Arizona State University.

The course is one of two in the nation which allows participants the opportunity to increase their skills in spectroscopy, which is the determination of quality and quantity of the composition of matter by measuring the intensity and the wave length of absorbed or emitted radiation.

With spectroscopy, scientists are able to determine factors such as the amount and kind of pollutants in air and water, minerals in the soil and the various content of meat products. Space engineers use the science to study composition of planets and police may employ it to detect narcotics and in accident investigations.

Coast Guard Nabs Pirates

HONOLULU (AP) — A Coast Guard cutter warily escorted a pirated yacht back to Honolulu today after a pursuit on the high seas that included hide-and-seek behind a squall and setting the yacht's crew adrift 140 miles at sea.

On board the 73-foot motor-sail launch Kamalii were three unidentified men the Coast Guard says stole the vessel Friday after threatening the crew with knives and pistols.

The yacht's owner, millionaire oilman E. L. "Larry" Doheny, was on the Coast Guard craft.

The Coast Guard said that after the Kamalii was intercepted shortly before midnight about 300 miles southwest of Honolulu, no attempt would be made to board it until late today. Rifles reportedly were kept aboard the yacht, which competed in the recent Trans-Pacific Yacht Race.

The capture ended a pursuit that began when the three crewmen, set adrift in a life raft 140 miles off Hawaii Saturday afternoon, were picked up unharmed five hours later by the Italian freighter Benavir.

The crewmen told the Coast Guard that the three hijackers had forced the yacht to set sail after stealing aboard at its berth Friday night.

A long-range patrol plane spotted the Kamalii Saturday night just as it tried to duck behind a squall line, the Coast Guard said. A message was dropped to it ordering the hijackers to heave to and reverse their course. The plane's crew said it saw the message retrieved but the ship didn't stop. The Coast Guard said the hijackers were on a course to Tahiti.

NEW YORK (AP) — Concern about the economy and dollar problems abroad kept investors on the sidelines today while stock prices skidded lower.

Trading was very slow.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 4.82 at 845.79.

Among issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange declines ran ahead of advances by about 6 to 5.

First-hour volume of 2,030,000 shares on the Big Board was the lowest since last Aug. 17 when 1,650,000 shares changed hands.

Brokers attributed the inactivity to investor worries about the continuing European monetary problems involving the U.S. dollar and concern about the U.S. economy in general. They also noted that this is a slow time of the year for the market anyway.

For most key issues price changes were fractional.

Newton Manslaughter Trial Ends With Jury Deadlocked

OAKLAND, Calif., (AP) — Black Panther cofounder Huey P. Newton, whose retrial on charges stemming from the killing of an Oakland policeman has ended with an 11-1 hung jury, goes before a new judge Tuesday to learn if he must stand trial a third time.

After six days of deliberation, a jury of 10 women and two men told Superior Court Judge Harold Hove Sunday that it was deadlocked.

First jurors had sent out a note asking they be taken for dinner, but another note followed saying: "One of the jurors no longer wishes to deliberate."

Some were near tears as the judge dismissed them and directed Newton to appear before the criminal calendar court for setting of a new trial date. He remains free on $50,000 bail.

There was no immediate indication from prosecutor Donald Whyte whether the state will again seek to try the 29-year-old Newton on a charge of voluntary manslaughter in the shooting of officer John Frey on Oct. 28, 1967.

Newton was charged with first-degree murder in his first trial and was found guilty of the lesser charge of voluntary manslaughter. The jury's verdict in that trial later was overturned, however.

"A black woman kept me out of jail," said a smiling Newton, indicating he believed the only black juror, Ruthie A. Ellis, was the one of the 11-1 vote.

The jury did not indicate whether the vote was for acquittal or conviction but both Newton and defense attorney Charles Garry expressed belief it was 11-1 for conviction.

"This shows that with at least one black person on the jury, this means I can get a fair trial," said Newton.

Garry said he thought his client should have been acquitted.

"This shows that racism permeates through the courts and there is no question that a Black Panther party member, especially the minister of defense (Newton's current title) cannot get a fair trial," Garry said.

Questions Taxpayers Ask

(Q) I was out of work two months because of illness, but my employer paid me sick pay. I know that to qualify for a sick pay exclusion on my federal income tax return, my length of absence must be longer than a required waiting period. How do I figure out my "waiting period?"

(A) The relationship of your weekly rate of sick pay to your weekly pay rate is a key factor in determining the waiting period for your sick pay exclusion.

If your rate of sick pay exceeds 75 per cent of your regular pay rate, your waiting period is 30 days — whether or not you were hospitalized at any time during your absence.

75 per cent or less of your regular pay rate and you were not hospitalized at any time during your absence, your waiting period is 7 days.

If your rate of sick pay is 75 per cent or less of your regular pay rate and you were hospitalized for at least one day during your period of absence, there is no waiting period.

For more information on the sick pay exclusion, get a copy of Publication 522, Adjustments to Income for Sick Pay, by sending a postcard to your IRS District office.

(Q) I have already earned over $650 from my summer job. Will this cause my parents to lose the exemption they plan to claim for me next year?

(A) Your parents will not lose the exemption if you are a full-time student during five months of the year, or under 19 years of age at the end of the year, and they meet the other dependency tests including furnishing over half of your total support. For additional information send your IRS District office a postcard requesting IRS Publication 532, Tax Information for Students and Parents.

(Q) My income looks like it's going to be higher than I expected. Can I increase my withholding or do I have to pay estimated tax?

(A) You may meet your increased liability either through higher withholding or through payments of estimated tax.

Amounts withheld may be increased by not claiming all the exemptions you are entitled to and, if necessary, also having a specified additional amount withheld. Changes in withholding are made by filling out a new Form W-4, which may be obtained from your employer.

To handle the increased tax liability through the estimated tax system, file a declaration of estimated tax by September 15. If you have already filed a declaration, you can adjust it by September 15. If you need copies of Form 1040ES and instructions, you can obtain them by mailing a postcard to your IRS District office.

Debate Rages In Germany Over Munich Police Action

BONN, Germany (AP) — At least one wife isn't speaking to her husband and old friendships are being strained as West Germans argue whether Munich police should have fired on two bank robbers while they were holding hostages.

One of the hostages, 20-year-old Ingried Reppel, was killed Wednesday night along with one of the gunmen as they reached a getaway car.

Officials claimed that the gunman, George Rammelmayer, 31, fired at the girl before police bullets hit him down. But the police decision to open fire has set off one of the country's most heated public controversies in years.

Rammelmayer and Dimitri Todorov, 24, barricaded themselves in the bank with 13 hostages shortly after 3 p.m. Wednesday and demanded two million marks—about $540,000, a getaway car and safe conduct through the police lines.

Officials agreed to these terms, but Munich's Chief Prosecutor Erich Sechser, Police Chief Manfred Schreiber and Bavarian Interior Ministry officials decided that police sharpshooters would open fire as soon as the gunmen emerged on the street. Interior Minister Brunk Merk said to let the pair get away would have endangered the public.

However, the first police shot did not kill Rammelmayer, the first man to come out, and he fired back. Nearly 200 shots were exchanged before the shootout ended. Miss Reppel was wounded in the car and died during the night. Todorov was captured alive.

A Munich lawyer, Frank Niepel, filed a charge of "intentional homicide" against the police chief, who also came under fire in some newspaper editorials.

The Munich city government asked the Bavarian state criminal investigation office to make a report on the case.

Disney Complex Hunts Employees

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Walt Disney World has 5,500 vacant positions to fill with short-haired clean-cut people before the giant amusement complex opens Oct. 1, says the Disney employee relations manager.

"For girls, it's minimum makeup, natural hairstyles and color says Tom Eastman. 'For guys, no long hair. That's what we are.'"

Eastman said Disney casts its employees in roles, and there is no place for long-haired people in the $300 million fantasy world. "It's like writing a play," he said. "You write in certain characters that you want to look certain ways. You can't change their appearance without changing the play."

Change To Metric System Is Slow, Steady In Britain

LONDON (AP) — The British are losing their scruples, and it has nothing to do with morality.

The scruple is a unit of measure, on the way out along with drams, grains, ounces, pounds, hundredweights, pecks, quarters and bushels.

This is part of the movement to adopt the metric system, and a forecast of things to come in the United States if Congress agrees to a recommendation of the Commerce Department.

Most of the measurements known as imperial are gradually giving way here to the metric system, which is easier to figure because it splits things by decimals. For example, 10 meters make a decimeter and 1,000 make a kilometer.

The imperial measurements being abandoned by Britain are in some cases the same as U.S. measures, in other cases not. A foot is 12 inches, in both countries but the imperial gallon used in Britain and Canada is about a fifth larger than the U.S. gallon. In Britain, gasoline about a fifth larger than the U.S. gallon. In Britain, gasoline eventually will be sold in liters rather than gallons. This is already the way it's done in Europe.

Britain is doing the shift to metric gradually, and there is no present intention to do away with the pint measure for beer and milk.

The metric system would use half a liter, slightly more than a pint, but the common man isn't willing to make this swap. Metric enthusiasts believe the pint eventually will become an anachronism, however.

The government's Metrication Board is confident Britain will be substantially a metric country by 1975, or 10 years after the nation began going metric.

To date some segments of industry are completely metric and other sections as far from it as ever.

Metrication has hardly hit the ordinary shopper as yet. Many packages list weights or volumes in both imperial and metric measures, but goods specifically metric won't become really noticeable in stores until next year. No dramatic changeover will come as in February when the British switched to decimal currency from their old pounds, shillings and pence.

Rangers Stop Brush Fire

FILLMORE, Calif. (AP) — A fast-moving brush fire burned over the crest of a rugged cliff and started toward a mountain sanctuary where the last California condors are fighting against extinction.

But the U.S. Forest Service brought in reserves, and a force of 500 firefighters halted the blaze Sunday.

The unexplained 200-acre fire in the Los Padres National Forest began Saturday during a heat spell that has raised the fire danger in mountains and canyon areas in Southern California.

Besides the 500 men, heavy equipment and a dozen air tankers helped control the blaze. No structures were burned and no injuries were reported.

Questions Taxpayers Ask

(Q) I was out of work two months because of illness, but my employer paid me sick pay. I know that to qualify for a sick pay exclusion on my federal income tax return, my length of absence must be longer than a required waiting period. How do I figure out my "waiting period?"

(A) The relationship of your weekly rate of sick pay to your weekly pay rate is a key factor in determining the waiting period for your sick pay exclusion.

If your rate of sick pay exceeds 75 per cent of your regular pay rate, your waiting period is 30 days — whether or not you were hospitalized at any time during your absence.

If your rate of sick pay is

75 per cent or less of your regular pay rate and you were not hospitalized at any time during your absence, your waiting period is 7 days.

If your rate of sick pay is 75 per cent or less of your regular pay rate and you were hospitalized for at least one day during your period of absence, there is no waiting period.

For more information on the sick pay exclusion, get a copy of Publication 522, Adjustments to Income for Sick Pay, by sending a postcard to your IRS District office.

(Q) I have already earned over $650 from my summer job. Will this cause my parents to lose the exemption they plan to claim for me next year?

(A) Your parents will not lose the exemption if you are a full-time student during five months of the year, or under 19 years of age at the end of the year, and they meet the other dependency tests including furnishing over half of your total support. For additional information send your IRS District office a postcard requesting IRS Publication 532, Tax Information for Students and Parents.

(Q) My income looks like it's going to be higher than I expected. Can I increase my withholding or do I have to pay estimated tax?

(A) You may meet your increased liability either through higher withholding or through payments of estimated tax.

Amounts withheld may be increased by not claiming all the exemptions you are entitled to and, if necessary, also having a specified additional amount withheld. Changes in withholding are made by filling out a new Form W-4, which may be obtained from your employer.

To handle the increased tax liability through the estimated tax system, file a declaration of estimated tax by September 15. If you have already filed a declaration, you can adjust it by September 15. If you need copies of Form 1040ES and instructions, you can obtain them by mailing a postcard to your IRS District office.

Debate Rages In Germany Over Munich Police Action

BONN, Germany (AP) — At least one wife isn't speaking to her husband and old friendships are being strained as West Germans argue whether Munich police should have fired on two bank robbers while they were holding hostages.

One of the hostages, 20-year-old Ingrid Reppel, was killed Wednesday night along with one of the gunmen as they reached a getaway car.

Officials claimed that the gunman, George Rammelmayer, 31, fired at the girl before police bullets cut him down. But the police decision to open fire has set off one of the country's most heated public controversies in years.

Rammelmayer and Dimitri Todorov, 24, barricaded themselves in the bank with 13 hostages shortly after 3 p.m. Wednesday and demanded two million marks—about $540,000, a getaway car and safe conduct through the police lines.

Officials agreed to these terms, but Munich's Chief Prosecutor Erich Sechser, Police Chief Manfred Schreiber and Bavarian Interior Ministry officials decided that police sharpshooters would open fire as soon as the gunmen emerged on the street. Interior Minister Brunk Merk said to let the pair get away would have endangered the public.

However, the first police shot did not kill Rammelmayer, the first man to come out, and he fired back. Nearly 200 shots were exchanged before the shootout ended. Miss Reppel was wounded in the car and died during the night. Todorov was captured alive.

A Munich lawyer, Frank Niepel, filed a charge of "intentional homicide" against the police chief, who also came under fire in some newspaper editorials.

The Munich city government asked the Bavarian state criminal investigation office to make a report on the case.

Disney Complex Hunts Employees

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Walt Disney World has 5,500 vacant positions to fill with short-haired clean-cut people before the giant amusement complex opens Oct. 1, says the Disney employee relations manager.

"For girls, it's minimum makeup, natural hairstyles and color says Tom Eastman. 'For guys, no long hair. That's what we are.'"

Eastman said Disney casts its employees in roles, and there is no place for long-haired people in the $300 million fantasy world.

"It's like writing a play," he said. "You write in certain characters that you want to look certain ways. You can't change their appearance without changing the play."

Change To Metric System Is Slow, Steady In Britain

LONDON (AP) — The British are losing their scruples, and it has nothing to do with morality.

The scruple is a unit of measure, on the way out along with drams, grains, ounces, pounds, hundredweights, pecks, quarters and bushels.

This is part of the movement to adopt the metric system, and a forecast of things to come in the United States if Congress agrees to a recommendation of the Commerce Department.

Most of the measurements known as imperial are gradually giving way here to the metric system, which is easier to figure because it splits things by decimals. For example, 10 meters make a decimeter and 1,000 make a kilometer.

The imperial measurements being abandoned by Britain are in some cases the same as U.S. measures, in other cases not. A foot is 12 inches, in both countries but the imperial gallon used in Britain and Canada is about a fifth larger than the U.S. gallon. In Britain, gasoline about a fifth larger than the U.S. gallon. In Britain, gasoline eventually will be sold in liters rather than gallons. This is already the way it's done in Europe.

Britain is doing the shift to metric gradually, and there is no present intention to do away with the pint measure for beer and milk.

The metric system would use half a liter, slightly more than a pint, but the common man isn't willing to make this swap. Metric enthusiasts believe the pint eventually will become an anachronism, however.

The government's Metrication Board is confident Britain will be substantially a metric country by 1975, or 10 years after the nation began going metric.

To date some segments of industry are completely metric and other sections as far from it as ever.

Continuing Quest

With a possible two-year budget deficit of $50 billion to consider, Congress passed a $3.4 billion budget for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Congress has recognized that life is more than the mere sustaining of man's vital organ functions.

To argue, as some have, that the spending of money for space exploration is inhuman and wasteful while poverty continues to exist in America debases the nature of man.

Adequate food and shelter for everyone is, of course, a goal worthy of pursuit. But the dignity of man that which distinguishes him from the other creatures of the Earth, lies not in the basic comforts of human existence.

No one fails to sympathize with the impoverished. But poverty itself is only a part of it. The result of poverty is important. Eliminating poverty does not guarantee the provision of real alternatives. If, to chase an escape from poverty, one drops all other pursuits, the catching of it may be less rewarding than anticipated.

The appreciation of beauty, the search for understanding, are what make life meaningful and rich. Escape from poverty is not an end but an opportunity, the freedom to search, to appreciate.

It is not inhuman to explore space while people starve. It is essential to preservation of humanity and life with meaning.

County Consolidation

No appeal for consolidation of counties has been heard recently anywhere, which can only mean one is due. These appear periodically. They are based on inadequate population to maintain a county government — in the case of some counties less than 1,000.

Another argument always advanced is that county boundaries are frequently unrealistic today. They were established in the horse-and-buggy days to make it easier for taxpayers to get to the county seat to pay their taxes, etc.

Thus, the argument goes, efficiency in county government would be promoted by consolidation of adjoining counties with sparse populations or terrain, thus making it possible to reduce taxes.

That plank about lower taxes must be refuted, however. Taxes will never come down, regardless of what happens.

Real Class

No matter how high the status conscious climb, there is always a new plateau beckoning. One of the latest is garden tractors. For some reason, lawn and garden tractors seem to be attracting even homeowners who haven't much ground.

To the point, apparently, where just any old tractor won't do. According to one of the largest manufacturers of the implements, among the accessories much in demand are cigarette lighters, chrome wheel covers, sun shades and radios.

No mention was made of grass cutters or other work attachments.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK AP) — "Only the government economists fail to realize that the fourth quarter is already here," said a notable pessimist, the other day after a presidential spokesman expressed hopes for an economic upturn this year.

"Anything they do now in Washington can't improve the final three months," he said. "They should have been worrying about the fall last spring."

The statement may be debated, but the lesson can't be ignored: The future for economists, businessmen, politicians and consumers is often now rather than tomorrow. They must imagine the future and act on it today.

No wonder then that those concerned with politics and spending occupy themselves at least 50 per cent of the time with a reality they can only imagine or forecast or hope for, or in rare cases, manufacture.

Pollsters probe the minds of consumers hoping to find out what ordinary buyers will be doing six months from now in order to guide businessmen in projecting their inventories and plant capacity and hiring policy.

As most people know, consumers aren't optimistic. Earlier this year they appeared to have been coming out of their gloom. Then most of the surveys—including one made by the government—turned down. Confidence, it was said, was deteriorating.

If the consumer surveys are correct, the economy is months away from regaining its vigor. Less well known is the survey of businessmen's confidence conducted by the National Chamber of Commerce. It shows businessmen are slightly more optimistic about the economy over the next year than they were three months ago.

And for what it's worth, they are much more optimistic about the next 10 years than they are about the next 12 months. Fifty-nine per cent of the 9,982 members polled expressed optimism for the next decade, 42 per cent for the next year.

What is the value of such information? Some analysts discount it altogether, claiming that events change quickly these days and so also do the minds of both businessmen and consumers.

They are especially critical the farther into the future the survey goes. No business except perhaps a utility, makes hard and fast spending plans 10 years ahead of time, they say. Events change quickly and, they add, so do opinions and attitudes.

But over the shorter terms—a year or so at most—a large number of politicians, businessmen, economists, stock market traders and others place a great amount of faith in the numbers.

There seems to be some evidence that this is so. Surveyors can produce charts that show a descending consumer confidence line followed months later by falling retail sales. And certainly it is true that a pessimistic businessman doesn't spend heavily on expansion.

To an extent therefore the surveys are self-fulfilling. If a businessman or consumer thinks the next year will be a poor one his subsequent actions may actually produce the results foreseen.

That is why concern now being expressed about inflation, interest rates and jobs suggests that the state of the economy may become the biggest issue of the 1972 political campaign.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

EXPOUNDING upon the customs of the Puritan, a Boston school teacher of American history asked, "Do any of you boys or girls happen to know what type of people were punished in the stocks?" A smart kid in the rear of the room piped up, "Certainly. Inexperienced investors!"

In Roger Angell's witty compendium, "A Day in the Life of Roger Angell," he tells in a clever parody how the students of the Vapid Falls elementary school locked their principal, a Mr. Forbush, into a mop closet and proceeded to wreck his office. The next morning, after the janitor had released him, Mr. Forbush was reasonably annoyed, but when the darling tykes reminded him it was Halloween, and their little escapade was simply Trick or Treat, the generous principal admitted, "The joke's on me, kids," and, still chuckling, expelled the entire class.

Angell also reports on the day Mr. Aababowicz, the first name in the Manhattan telephone directory, grew tired of "humorous" phone calls, and dialed the number of Mr. Zzybyzsky, who was, naturally, the last name in the directory. They promptly agreed to meet—somewhere around the M's.

Miss Rau had gulped down six martinis, but shown no effects thereof. "Don't you EVER feel your liquor?" marveled a newly acquired sugar daddy. "Of course not," countered Miss Rau. "Why should I get my fingers wet?"

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

A 6-year-old girl was brought to my office because of a sudden sharp pain while swallowing.

X-ray of the neck showed that she had a staple embedded in the upper portion of her esophagus, the thin delicate tube that leads from the mouth to the stomach.

Having placed her under general anesthesia I removed, through an esophagoscope, the metal staple that might well have proved fatal if undiscovered.

Many such cases have been reported in children and in adults. All were attributed to the same cause. It seems that it is a modern, but hazardous, practice to staple bags of food in grocery shops and supermarkets.

I learned that this method was adopted as a technique for preventing pilfering and as a means of rapidly attaching a price list.

When the bag is taken home, it is easy to understand how the staple could pop off and imbed itself in one of many items of food.

I am amazed that this outrageous "health hazard" has not been legally stopped. There certainly must be safer methods by which these shops can protect their interests, and also their customers.

Until some legislation does occur, extreme care should be taken to remove and discard staples that you bring into your home.

Housewives can be the dominant force in demanding that staples be eliminated from their food packages.

Pressure on food store managers and on local legislators should be made now, before a possible calamity arises to motivate it.

Twenty-five years ago it was first suspected that fluoride in water could decrease tooth decay.

The initial program in Grand Rapids, Mich., and in Newburgh, N. Y., substantiated the fact that dental cavities, or decay, were diminished when an adequate amount of fluoride was present in drinking water.

Since then, thousands of communities have benefited from this remarkable scientific observation. Almost 50 per cent of the entire population of the United States now have the advantage of this protection

Peace For Next Year

BY JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

A sharp observer, just back from the Middle East, raises some interesting points about the effect of Nixon's new China policy on the Israeli-Arab standoff. For the short term at least, Washington's move to reach what would amount to a detente with Peking must help the Israelis, if only because it gives them a bit of respite. The reason: Nixon's abrupt switch in his approach to Red China must be taken in Moscow as just one more piece of evidence that Nixon is the world's most unpredictable leader.

Nobody thought in advance that Nixon would go into Cambodia; nobody, after the fact of the Cambodian incursion, thought he would really pull the U.S. troops out on schedule. And now nobody knows what he will grant to Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai that might help strengthen Peking in its resolve to take no nonsense from the Russians along the 4,000 mile, inner-Asian border.

This bit of Middle East fallout from the Far Eastern diplomatic salvos reemphasizes the interdependence of the U.S. foreign policy fronts. What could cause Moscow worries on the Manchurian border, or in moving its military aid to Hanoi through Red Chinese territory, must have its impact on Soviet willingness to back up Egypt's Sadat in his more immediate and extreme demands. The Soviets cannot possibly accept a war on two fronts.

As for Sadat, he can hardly move against Israel without a go-ahead from Moscow, the new MIG-23's, the most sophisticated fighting planes in the world which the Russians have sent to Egypt, can only be flown by Soviet pilots at this stage of the game. And even the lesser planes, such as the MIG-21's, are dependent for servicing on Russian technicians.

The new Nixon China policy must have the effect of giving Joseph Sisco, the U.S. Assistant Secretary of State for Near Eastern and Southern Asian Affairs, time for argument in trying to bring the Israelis and the Egyptians together on a plan for reopening the Suez Canal. But the argufying elbow room may simply result in more temporization.

With the 1972 political campaign coming up in the U.S., Nixon's unpredictability must keep both the Israelis and the Soviets jumping. On the one hand, the Soviets must worry about Nixon's desire to appeal to the liberal Jewish vote in New York City and Los Angeles, which could be critical in two important states. On the other hand, the Israelis must be thinking that no American President would commit U.S. troops to any foreign soil during an election campaign.

The enigmatic Nixon could play it down the middle until the last minute, thwarting the Soviets by his ability to turn the aid-to-Israel spigot on and off at his sweet will. To preserve his 1972 "indeterminacy," however, Nixon may have to let some more Phantom aircraft go to Israel in 1971 to redress the recent dispatch of MIG-21's to Syria.

The Phantom is the answer to the MIG-21, if not to the MIG-23, and the balance must be kept if Nixon is to retain the advantage of being a 1972 sphinx.

The strands of Middle Eastern diplomacy are so tangled that there is no immediate prospect of anything definitive coming from Sisco's current trip to Israel. As long as the Russians are worried about the Far East, the world can take Sadat's threat to settle the Israeli question by 1972 with a whole cupful of salt. However, with the Kremlin taking its eye off the Suez front for the moment to watch the general fallout from the Kissinger talks in Peking, the Egyptians and the Libyans could afford the luxury of helping the legitimate government of the Sudan to smother the recent Communist putsch.

Moscow's veto does not run as far south as Khartoum. But it does cover Cairo. The Peking veto, however, is the all important one, for it covers the whole Middle East. In playing for that veto, Nixon has exhibited his customary short-term cleverness.

The long-term effects of U.S. diplomacy are something else again. We want to see the Suez Canal opened without irretrievably hurting the Israelis. But once it is open, the Soviet Navy will be able to reach the Indian Ocean in three days instead of three-to-four weeks. As for our new China policy, if it should ultimately lend too much strength to Peking it might provoke the Japanese into signing a Moscow-Tokyo defensive pact.

But this, as it must seem to Nixon, is too far in the future to worry about. We live in an era where any postponement of any war in 1971 and 1972 must be considered more important to the Administration than what may happen to the world in 1973. Nixon is playing a Metternichian balance-of-power game, but, unlike the statesmen of a century-and-a-half ago, he is playing for next year, not for the next generation.

HOPES TO SHOW APOLLO 15 MOVIES—Watching astronaut Alfred M. Worden space-walking, at Nassau Bay, Tex., with his wife, the astronaut's father, Merrill, says he hopes to add a complete copy of the Apollo 15 mission to his collection of movies dating back to "King Kong." AUGUST, 1926

45 YEARS AGO

The land of the late J. R. and Elizabeth Valentine was sold at auction to Charles Rittinger of Deercreek Twp. for $165 per acre. The tract consisted of 115.88 acres.

Democratic candidates for Pickaway County Sheriff were J. Cleve Rader and Wilson L. Henn.

George M. Fitzpatrick, mayor of Circleville and grandson of Grandmother Meyers, the first white child to be born in Circleville, was noted for his efforts to clean up Circleville. After his first term in office he was soundly defeated by his opponent. Apparently Circleville didn't take to his temperance ideas. However he was returned to office twice and, in 1926, seeking his fourth term. He was noted for closing all businesses in the community on Sundays during hours of religious observance, by simple proclamation asking the businessmen's and citizens' support.

New management of the American Hotel dining room, Albert Frazier, reported the opening of the dining room and dinners for 50 cents. Fried chicken, however, cost ten cents more per meal.

Lawrence Roll, Route 3, Kingston near Hallsville, advertised for all those who wished to gather their blackberries for desserts and preserving would have their chance at his farm for only $2 per bushel or $5 delivered in Circleville.

Ice cream cones at Clark's 5 and 10 Cent Store, were three for 10 cents.

FOR SALE — Messrs. Nickerson, Gilliland and Young are offering their new six room frame dwelling up-to-the-minute, located on Northridge Road just off the car line, possession given at once.

A marriage license was issued to Harold S. Sayre, 22, a barber from Detroit, Mich., and Thelma McDermott, 22 of South Bloomfield.

On sale at Crist Department Store, Circleville: Knobby umbrellas, $3.95 and $4.95; Japanese parasols, 49 cents to $1.49 and automobile trunks to set on your running board, $5.95.

Citizens were reminded where to cast their votes during the August 10 primary election. Residents in the first ward cast their votes at the United Brethren Community House, the Helwag garage, the T. Stofor and Son store; second ward, fire department; third ward, mayor's office in the city building; office of H. M. Crites at mill; fourth ward, north store room of George W. Limebaugh and office room formerly occupied by the Wood Specialty Co., Edison Ave.

The M. G. Goellers & Sons Broom factory opened a temporary factory in the Ohio Utilities Co. power plant on W. Mound St.

D. A. Yates sold out his interest in the Hornbeck-Yates Motor Co. of Columbus and announced his intention of returning to Circleville to take charge of the Yates Motor Co. on W. Main St. with his associate George Dennis.

A man weighing 190 pounds at the North Pole would weigh at least one pound lighter at the Equator — Factograph item. Naturally, he'd be wearing a lot lighter clothing!

Continuing Quest

With a possible two-year budget deficit of $50 billion to consider, Congress passed a $3.4 billion budget for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Congress has recognized that life is more than the mere sustaining of man's vital organ functions.

To argue, as some have, that the spending of money for space exploration is inhuman and wasteful while poverty continues to exist in America debases the nature of man.

Adequate food and shelter for everyone is, of course, a goal worthy of pursuit. But the dignity of man that which distinguishes him from the other creatures of the Earth, lies not in the basic comforts of human existence.

No one fails to sympathize with the impoverished. But poverty itself is only a part of it. The result of poverty is important. Eliminating poverty does not guarantee the provision of real alternatives. If, to chase an escape from poverty, one drops all other pursuits, the catching of it may be less rewarding than anticipated.

The appreciation of beauty, the search for understanding, are what make life meaningful and rich. Escape from poverty is not an end but an opportunity, the freedom to search, to appreciate.

It is not inhuman to explore space while people starve. It is essential to preservation of humanity and life with meaning.

County Consolidation

No appeal for consolidation of counties has been heard recently anywhere, which can only mean one is due. These appear periodically. They are based on inadequate population to maintain a county government — in the case of some counties less than 1,000.

Another argument always advanced is that county boundaries are frequently unrealistic today. They were established in the horse-and-buggy days to make it easier for taxpayers to get to the county seat to pay their taxes, etc.

Thus, the argument goes, efficiency in county government would be promoted by consolidation of adjoining counties with sparse populations or terrain, thus making it possible to reduce taxes.

That plank about lower taxes must be refuted, however. Taxes will never come down, regardless of what happens.

Real Class

No matter how high the status conscious climb, there is always a new plateau beckoning. One of the latest is garden tractors. For some reason, lawn and garden tractors seem to be attracting even homeowners who haven't much ground.

To the point, apparently, where just any old tractor won't do. According to one of the largest manufacturers of the implements, among the accessories much in demand are cigarette lighters, chrome wheel covers, sun shades and radios.

No mention was made of grass cutters or other work attachments.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK AP) — "Only as most people know, consumers aren't optimistic. Earlier this year they appeared to have been coming out of their gloom. Then most of the surveys—including one made by the government—turned down. Confidence, it was said, was deteriorating."

If the consumer surveys are correct, the economy is months away from regaining its vigor. Less well known is the survey of businessmen's confidence conducted by the National Chamber of Commerce. It shows businessmen are slightly more optimistic about the economy over the next year than they were three months ago.

And for what it's worth, they are much more optimistic about the next 12 months. Fifty-nine per cent of the 9,982 members polled expressed optimism for the next decade, 42 per cent for the next year.

What is the value of such information? Some analysts discount it altogether, claiming that events change quickly these days and so also do the minds of both businessmen and consumers.

They are especially critical of the 1972 political campaign.

But over the shorter terms—a year or so at most—a large number of politicians, businessmen, economists, stock market traders and others place a great amount of faith in the numbers.

There seems to be some evidence that this is so. Survivors can produce charts that show a descending consumer confidence line followed months later by falling retail sales. And certainly it is true that a pessimistic businessman doesn't spend heavily on expansion.

To an extent therefore the surveys are self-fulfilling. If a businessman or consumer thinks the next year will be a poor one his subsequent actions may actually produce the results foreseen.

That is why concern now being expressed about inflation, interest rates and jobs suggests that the state of the economy may become the biggest issue of the 1972 political campaign.

When the bag is taken home, it is easy to understand how the staple could pop off and imbed itself in one of many items of food.

I am amazed that this outrageous "health hazard" has not been legally stopped. There certainly must be safer methods by which these shops can protect their interests, and also their customers.

Until some legislation does occur, extreme care should be taken to remove and discard staples that you bring into your home.

Housewives can be the dominant force in demanding that staples be eliminated from their food packages.

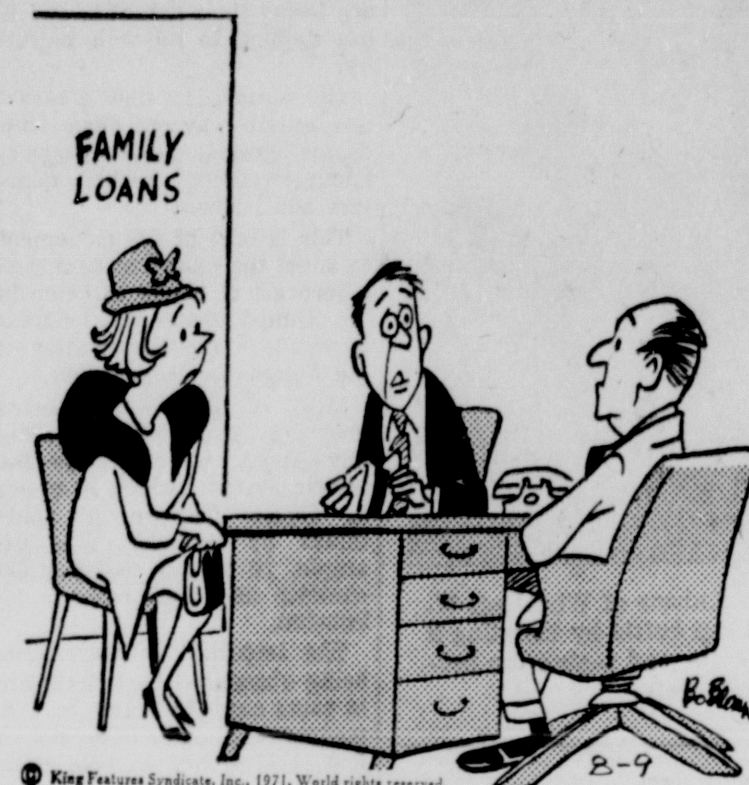

Pressure on food store managers and on local legislators should be made now, before a possible calamity arises to motivate it.

Twenty-five years ago it was first suspected that fluoride in water could decrease tooth decay.

The initial program in Grand Rapids, Mich., and in Newburgh, N. Y., substantiated the fact that dental cavities, or decay, were diminished when an adequate amount of fluoride was present in drinking water.

Since then, thousands of communities have benefited from this remarkable scientific observation. Almost 50 per cent of the entire population of the United States now have the advantage of this protection

Laff-A-Day

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

EXPOUNDING upon the customs of the Puritan, a Boston school teacher of American history asked, "Do any of you boys or girls happen to know what type of people were punished in the stocks?" A smart kid in the rear of the room piped up, "Certainly. Inexperienced investors!"

In Roger Angell's witty compendium, "A Day in the Life of Roger Angell," he tells in a clever parody how the students of the Vapid Falls elementary school locked their principal, a Mr. Forbush, into a mop closet and proceeded to wreck his office. The next morning, after the janitor had released him, Mr. Forbush was reasonably annoyed, but when the darling tykes reminded him it was Halloween, and their little escapade was simply Trick or Treat, the generous principal admitted, "The joke's on me, kids," and, still chuckling, expelled the entire class.

Angell also reports on the day Mr. Aababovitch, the first name in the Manhattan telephone directory, grew tired of "humorous" phone calls, and dialed the number of Mr. Zzybyzsky, who was, naturally, the last name in the directory. They promptly agreed to meet—somewhere around the M's.

Miss Rau had gulped down six martinis, but shown no effects thereof. "Don't you EVER feel your liquor?" marveled Miss Rau. "Of course not," countered Miss Rau. "Why should I get my fingers wet?"

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

A 6-year-old girl was brought to my office because of a sudden sharp pain while swallowing.

X-ray of the neck showed that she had a staple imbedded in the upper portion of her esophagus, the thin delicate tube that leads from the mouth to the stomach.

Having placed her under general anesthesia I removed, through an esophagoscope, the metal staple that might well have proved fatal if undiscovered.

Many such cases have been reported in children and in adults. All were attributed to the same cause. It seems that it is a modern, but hazardous, practice to staple bags of food in grocery shops and supermarkets.

I learned that this method was adopted as a technique for preventing pilfering and as a means of rapidly attaching a price list.

When the bag is taken home, it is easy to understand how the staple could pop off and imbed itself in one of many items of food.

I am amazed that this outrageous "health hazard" has not been legally stopped. There certainly must be safer methods by which these shops can protect their interests, and also their customers.

Peace For Next Year

BY JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

A sharp observer, just back from the Middle East, raises some interesting points about the effect of Nixon's new China policy on the Israeli-Arab standoff. For the short term at least, Washington's move to reach what would amount to a detente with Peking must help the Israelis, if only because it gives them a bit of respite. The reason: Nixon's abrupt switch in his approach to Red China must be taken in Moscow as just one more piece of evidence that Nixon is the world's most unpredictable leader.

Nobody thought in advance that Nixon would go into Cambodia; nobody, after the fact of the Cambodian incursion, thought he would really pull the U.S. troops out on schedule. And now nobody knows what he will grant to Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai that might help strengthen Peking in its resolve to take no nonsense from the Russians along the 4,000 mile, inner-Asian border.

This bit of Middle East fallout from the Far Eastern diplomatic salvos reemphasizes the interdependence of the U.S. foreign policy fronts. What could cause Moscow worries on the Manchurian border, or in moving its military aid to Hanoi through Red Chinese territory, must have its impact on Soviet willingness to back up Egypt's Sadat in his more immediate and extreme demands. The Soviets cannot possibly accept a war on two fronts.

As for Sadat, he can hardly move against Israel without a go-ahead from Moscow. The new MIG-23's, the most sophisticated fighting planes in the world which the Russians have sent to Egypt, can only be flown by Soviet pilots at this stage of the game. And even the lesser planes, such as the MIG-21's, are dependent for servicing on Russian technicians.

The new Nixon China policy must have the effect of giving Joseph Sisco, the U.S. Assistant Secretary of State for Near Eastern and Southern Asian Affairs, time for argument in trying to bring the Israelis and the Egyptians together on a plan for reopening the Suez Canal. But the arguing elbow room may simply result in more temporization.

Miss Judith A. Anderson Bride Of Larry L. Benter

Miss Judith Alsona Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Anderson, Kingston, became the bride of Larry L. Benter, Oelwein, Iowa at 2:30 p.m., August 7th at Pleasantview United Methodist Church. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Roy Osborn before the altar, adorned with a vase of white and yellow daisies and the pews with white satin bows.

Organ selections were played by Mona Speakman and the soloist, Marilyn Frye, sang "A Time for Us" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was attired in an empire gown of chantilly lace and white nylon organza. Her elbow length veil of illusion was caught to a headpiece of lace and seed pearls. The bride's bouquet consisted of white daisies and yellow sweetheart roses.

Miss Patty Law of Circleville, served as her cousin's maid of honor. Sister of the groom, Miss Eileen Benter of Oelwein, Iowa, and Miss Ruby Anderson, sister of the bride, Kingston, Ohio served as the bride's attendants. The attendants wore gowns of powder blue polyester knit trimmed with white daisies with matching veils. The maid of honor and attendants carried identical nosegays of white daisies.

Larry Niehaus, Washington D.C. served his friend as best man. Mr. Rodney Westendorf, Carbon Dale, Ill., friend of the groom and Mr. Russell Benter, cousin of the groom served as ushers.

The bride's mother wore a pink, linen dress with lace trim. The bridegroom's mother wore a navy and white dress with red trim. Both mothers wore corsages of white carnations.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the social room at the church. Hostesses were Judy's former roommates from Washington D.C., LoRae Harbold, Brenda Loug and Kaye McDowell presiding at the guest book. The three tiered pedestal cake was encircled with yellow roses.

The bride's going away costume was an aqua polyester knit dress with white accessories. Her corsage was of white daisies and yellow roses. The bride was employed with the FBI in Washington D.C. and the groom is serving with the U.S. Navy at Cecil Field, Fla. After August 18th they will reside at 1773 Lindsey Rd., Jacksonville, Fla.

GAMES TIME — At the annual picnic and outing for employees of The Herald, families and friends, it was time for games. Some enjoyed fishing, boating, swimming and ball games while others preferred matching wits at a card game on a blanket. Hosts for the event were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jones, Route 4. Highlighting the picnic was when the corn, cooked over the barbecue pit was ready and the other food placed on long tables. Vieing for honors with the corn were hot roast beef sandwiches and hot dogs. Often visited by the youngsters was the huge iron pot filled with ice where the pop was cooled.

Mrs. Chisholm May Run For President

NEW YORK (AP) — Rep. Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y., the first black woman member of Congress, says she has received favorable reactions from across the country to her announcement she might run for president.

Money would be an obstacle, but Mrs. Chisholm said Sunday she has received "hundreds of dollars" without soliciting it.

"Students, women, minority groups, and many, many disillusioned older white voters are looking for new blood—somebody who can look at the problems we are faced with differently," she said.

U.S. Bombers Open Fire On Red Gunners

SAIGON (AP) — American fighter-bombers made their 48th attack of the year inside North Vietnam Sunday, and B52 bombers attacked enemy positions one mile south of the demilitarized zone, the U.S. Command announced today.

The command said the "protective reaction" strike six miles north of the DMZ was against anti-aircraft guns that fired on an unarmed reconnaissance plane and two fighter-bombers escorting it.

The U.S. planes were not hit. The F4 pilots said they were unable to assess the damage their bombs caused because of the smoke.

The reconnaissance plane presumably was gathering photo and electronic intelligence on North Vietnamese gun sites, supply points and troop movements.

Meanwhile, three B52 bombers dropped 90 tons of bombs on suspected troop concentrations nine miles northwest of Cam Lo and a mile south of the DMZ. The raids were about four miles north of the much fought over Fire Base Fuller, which was hit with two heavy mortar barrages last week.

Six other B52s pounded suspected troop concentrations and weapons positions near the Laotian border before dawn today.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Dave Garroway, after a year of sipping Southern California lie and work, has decided he likes it and plans to stay-in television.

Dave, 10 years after he left NBC's New York-based "Today Show," is having his first important network exposure as host of CBS's "Newcomers" in eight summer replacement shows. The TV shows are all taped, and how Dave has quit a local music and talk radio show he had conducted for the past year.

"The television show was too good to be true," he reported. "It was so much fun for me it was almost indecent—like doing 'Garroway at Large' again. I even had Bill Hobin, who was with me then, back as producer."

The radio show—three hours a day, six days a week—was beginning to be a grind because "you need an awful lot of things to talk about to keep that up," he said.

"There are so many TV things in the wind, I am feeling a little confused," he continued. "The network is still talking about continuing the summer show as a midseason replacement. I don't know our chances but they are keeping the costumes and scenery intact, which should mean something. There's a TV special that is pretty well set and a couple of others in the talking stage. And commercials."

Garroway, original host of "Today," quit after the sudden death of his wife in 1961. Some sad years followed with a couple of false starts in TV business ventures. A well-received TV interview show on a Boston station expanded into a small syndication, but collapsed when his employers decided to abandon live programming for old movies.

With his 13-year-old son David, he is off on a trip down the Colorado River rapids. Slimmed down to under 200 pounds, he has taken up golf after a 16-year hiatus and is looking for a house in Los Angeles' outlying regions to which he can ship his 6,000 pound telescope. An astronomy buff for years, Garroway now has the telescope in his Scituate, Mass., home, which he expects to sell.

His spirits and outlook are brighter than in years but he is the same gentle, thoughtful man whose whimsy and understatement made him one of TV's earliest superstars. "I'm even taking acting lessons," he said. "I want to be ready for anything. I have no regrets about leaving 'Today,' but I sometimes do have a nostalgic twinge when I watch it. As the original host, I'm going to be with Hugh Downs on his final program in October."

New York's Garbage Could Fill Mines

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York City environmental protection administrator has come up with a new idea on what to do with the city's garbage. He's thinking about shipping it to Ohio and Pennsylvania to fill in strip mines.

Behind the plan, Jerome Kretschmer said Sunday, is mounting opposition from conservation groups in New York to plans for construction of new incinerators to handle the city's massive garbage cleanings.

"Rail haul is fairly inexpensive," Kretschmer said in an interview on WABC radio. "We could probably rail haul garbage out of the city for someplace between $4 and $4.50 to $5 a ton."

He said the city now spends about $8 a ton to dispose of garbage in the most sophisticated incinerators.

Kretschmer's department is currently studying the feasibility of sending the garbage to strip mine sites, he said.

The average American family of four annually eats more than 2½ tons of food.

Hearings, begun last week, to continue all this week.

CHILDREN

TAXES
Am. Sub. H.B. 477—The proposed $1.5 billion biennial tax package, including creation of statewide, graduated income taxes on individuals and corporations. Referred by the full Senate Ways and Means Committee to a subcommittee for further study. The subcommittee tax probe will continue this week. A "policy decision" has been promised.

NFO Wins Court Case

The National Farmers Organization has won a victory in Federal Court in a long-fought anti-trust suit testing the legality of its master contracts, membership agreements and right to bargain it has been announced by Tom Conrad, New Holland, past county president.

The U.S. District Court for Southern Indiana held the Capper-Volstead Act permits NFO to bargain collectively as a producer association, to negotiate contracts with processors and other buyers and to price the production of its members. The suit was filed in 1966.

Orren Lee Staley, national president of NFO, called it a clean bill of health for the organization's legal structure and a landmark decision for American agriculture.

New York's Garbage Could Fill Mines

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York City environmental protection administrator has come up with a new idea on what to do with the city's garbage. He's thinking about shipping it to Ohio and Pennsylvania to fill in strip mines.

Behind the plan, Jerome Kretschmer said Sunday, is mounting opposition from conservation groups in New York to plans for construction of new incinerators to handle the city's massive garbage cleanings.

"Rail haul is fairly inexpensive," Kretschmer said in an interview on WABC radio. "We could probably rail haul garbage out of the city for someplace between $4 and $4.50 to $5 a ton."

He said the city now spends about $8 a ton to dispose of garbage in the most sophisticated incinerators. Kretschmer's department is currently studying the feasibility of sending the garbage to strip mine sites, he said.

The average American family of four annually eats more than 2½ tons of food.

Double Standard In Swimming Pool

DEAR ABBY: Some neighbors of ours have a swimming pool behind their house. They also have a pair of 1-year-old twin boys and two daughters, 9 and 13. These neighbors allow their boys to swim in the raw at the same time their daughters use the pool, but the girls wear swim suits. That's their business, but it presents a problem to us because the twin boys have invited our son to swim in their pool.

Our son says swimming in the raw doesn't bother him, girls or no girls. (Can this be?) He also says that the neighbor boys were raised to believe that it is proper for girls to see what boys look like, but it is not proper for boys to see what girls look like. How do you feel about this, Abby? And should we let our boy swim at the neighbors?

COLORADO READERS: DEAR READERS: Since your son already knows what boys look like, why not? And I don't know why it's any more "proper" for girls to know what boys look like than for boys to know what girls look like.

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law is a "good" person. That's the trouble. She's TOO good. She offers to baby-sit, and while we are gone she cleans my house, does the laundry and rearranges cupboards and closets.

My husband and I have asked her to please just leave things as they are, but she doesn't listen. It is not only impossible for us to find things after she has "rearranged" everything, but she gripes to our children about how "disorganized" the place is.

One time she washed red with white and we all had pink underwear and socks. Last night she WASHED my best wool knit slacks and today my 8-year-old daughter can wear them.

She has a key to our house. (Big mistake.) Whenever we are gone and she has nothing else to do, she comes over and gets busy.

I don't want to hurt her feelings, but I have had it. Any suggestions? Help Needed

DEAR NO HELP: First, manage to get the key back. Then have your husband tell her that you can't allow her to "help" you by baby-sitting unless she promises to stop helping you to keep house. Tell him to be firm, but gentle. But let her know he means business.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married to a very kind and gentle man for over 25 years. We have raised five children. The youngest, and only one home, is 17.

My husband has become interested in a very attractive woman who is slightly younger than I am. They are at present only "eyeing" each other. All my life I have been a very perceptive person, and I know they are attracted to each other.

My question: Should I confront him with my knowledge immediately, or remain silent? He, of course, would probably tell me that I am mistaken, but I do believe it might stop him as he does love me and our family.

I fully realize this happens to many people but I want to know if I would be doing the wise thing by speaking up.

MRS. HEARTSICK: DEAR MRS. HEARTSICK: If you believe it might "stop" him, speak up. And the sooner the better.

Navy Chief Says Carrier Needed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — America's chief of naval operations said in an interview published Sunday the United States needs a fourth nuclear carrier task force.

The carrier is the key to controlling the seas in a conventional war, Adm. Elmo Zumwalt said in the report published by the Columbus Dispatch.

"The vulnerability of the aircraft carrier has been grossly overstated," Zumwalt said. "Of course, it can be sunk by nuclear weapons, but in a nuclear war everything goes anyway."

Fillipino Reporter Comments On North Korea

by BENEDICTO S. DAVID
MANILA (AP) — Three things impress a visitor to North Korea: the well-cared-for children, the adoration of Premier Kim Il-sung and massive construction.

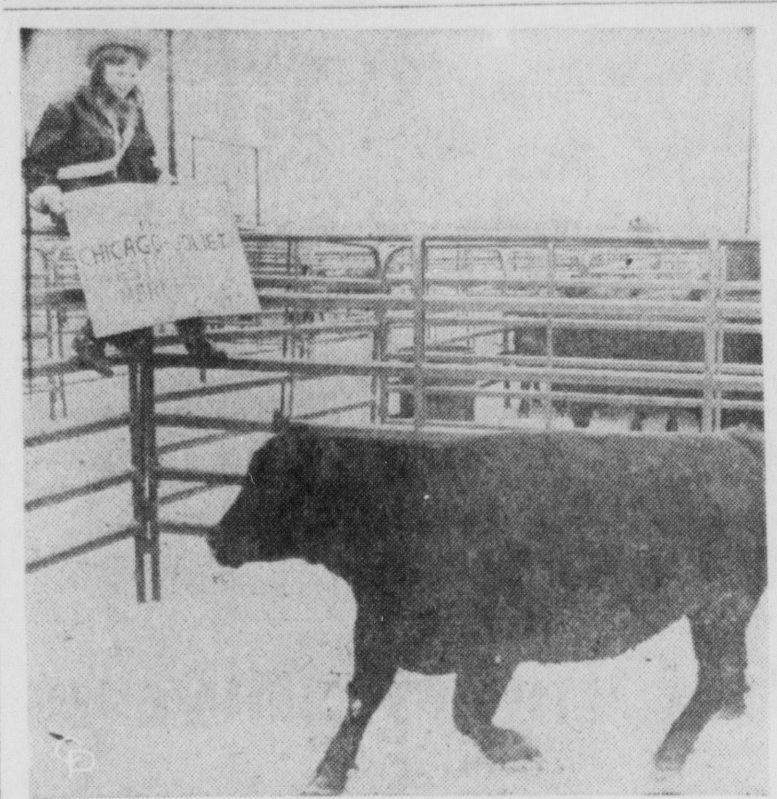

Three things overshadowed everything else during my 20-day stay. It covered Pyongyang, Wonsan and nearby areas and industrial sites. Everywhere we met children in multicolored traditional dresses or blue and white Young Pioneer uniforms with red kerchiefs.

The live in ubiquitous apartment buildings, and throughout our travels we saw others under construction.

Everywhere, too, we ran into pictures, books, posters, banners, pamphlets, museums and other signs of the man who has shaped the Democratic People's Republic, Premier Kim.

The secrets of his overwhelming presence obviously are the educational system and treatment of the children. At nurseries the youngsters are taught about the revolutionary exploits of Comrade Kim and those of his father and mother, his brother, his grandfather, and his great-grandfather.

The children are cared for with a zeal that could be an example for professional educators from other countries. Every child is given a free education and free summer camp and we were told he gets a free der professional supervision, set of clothes every season. From the time a child is 3 months old, the state gives him professional care in nurseries at factory, office or farm. He is taken in the morning by his mother or father—both usually work—and picked up at the end of the day.

HIS-AND-HER STEAKS FOR THE WHITE HOUSE—The last steer traded at the old Chicago Stock Yards, Black Jack stretches his legs before being shipped to the White House for his-and-her steaks for President and Mrs. Nixon. The stockyards have been replaced by the Chicago-Joliet Livestock Marketing Center, which gave the steer to the Nixons.

British Kill Irishman

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — British troops shot and killed the driver of a delivery truck today in the Springfield Road district of Belfast. Witnesses said the man had been killed by mistake and the army ordered an investigation of the incident.

Witnesses told police the truck backfired twice in front of an army control point and then halted at a red traffic light 50 yards further on. Troops on duty at the post evidently thought they were under attack. One dashed into the road and shot through the back of the truck, killing the driver, the reports said.

Police said the man was on his way to work. Workmates following in another truck were being questioned.

The dead man was married and had six children, officials said. This brought to 28 the death toll since January in Northern Ireland's wave of violence. There have been 58 known deaths, since intercommunal strife began in August 1969.

Earlier, gunmen attacked a sandgaged post in the same area from the top of a hijacked bus and a lone gunman exchanged fire with a British army patrol in a Roman Catholic district of the city.

Prior to the shooting, scores of youngsters had hauled a blazing barricade across Falls Road. Adults joined them and they engaged in a shooting, rock-throwing battle with troops before they dispersed to their homes under a volley of army rubber bullets.

Two explosions damaged buildings in Londonderry, where preparations went ahead for next week's march by the headline Protestant fraternity, the Apprentice Boys of Derry.

It was this event two years ago which ignited violent clashes between Protestants and Catholics that swept Northern Ireland.

Adequate provisions appear to have been made, however, for the necessities of rice, vegetables, coal and housing.

Rice is sold in predetermined quantities at .08 won per kilogram, a little more than one cent per pound. Coal is cheap. Housing rental amounts to about 2 per cent of a family's income. A husband and wife earn about 200 won a month if both work.

Clothing is quite expensive. A wool suit costs about 180 won. Medical expenses are practically nil because factory or office foots the bills. The worker gets annual vacations at government resorts and does not worry about price fluctuations because there are none.

There are no private cars, and cities lack adequate public transportation. Most people live near work or schools.

Concerts, motion pictures and stage presentations feature anti-Japanese or anti-American themes.

North Korea's future will be decided either by the war it expects with the South or by negotiations that would reunite North and South peacefully. The latter appears virtually impossible now. Children are taught to pity the "miserable plight of our Southern brothers."

It appeared from what we saw that he has earned at least some of the worship. We saw no youngsters shining shoes or begging in Pyongyang or Wonsan—nor any adult beggars, for that matter.

Apartment houses are built with modern prefabrication techniques. Pictures of Pyongyang taken around 1953 show nothing but rubble. Today it is a city of wide boulevards and shady parks, austere but not poverty-stricken. Factories and

It appeared from what we saw that he has earned at least some of the worship. We saw no youngsters shining shoes or begging in Pyongyang or Wonsan—nor any adult beggars, for that matter.

Apartment houses are built with modern prefabrication techniques. Pictures of Pyongyang taken around 1953 show nothing but rubble. Today it is a city of wide boulevards and shady parks, austere but not poverty-stricken. Factories and steel plants flattened by American bombs 17 years ago are turning out more products than ever.

Stores have few imported goods or luxury items.

Adequate provisions appear to have been made, however, for the necessities of rice, vegetables, coal and housing.

Rice is sold in predetermined quantities at .08 won per kilogram, a little more than one cent per pound. Coal is cheap. Housing rental amounts to about 2 per cent of a family's income. A husband and wife earn about 200 won a month if both work.

Clothing is quite expensive. A wool suit costs about 180 won. Medical expenses are practically nil because factory or office foots the bills. The worker gets annual vacations at government resorts and does not worry about price fluctuations because there are none.

There are no private cars, and cities lack adequate public transportation. Most people live near work or schools.

Concerts, motion pictures and stage presentations feature anti-Japanese or anti-American themes.

North Korea's future will be decided either by the war it expects with the South or by negotiations that would reunite North and South peacefully. The latter appears virtually impossible now. Children are taught to pity the "miserable plight of our Southern brothers."

Everywhere, too, we ran into pictures, books posters, banners, pamphlets, museums and other signs of the man who has shaped the Democratic People's Republic, Premier Kim.

The secrets of his overwhelming presence obviously are the educational system and treatment of the children. At nurseries the youngsters are taught about the revolutionary exploits of Comrade Kim and those of his father and mother, his brother, his grandfather, and his great-grandfather.

The children are cared for with a zeal that could be an example for professional educators from other countries. Every child is given a free education and free summer camp and we were told he gets a free der professional supervision, set of clothes every season.

From the time a child is 3 months old, the state gives him professional care in nurseries at factory, office or farm. He is taken in the morning by his mother or father—both usually work—and picked up at the end of the day.

He is fed and clothed at the nursery and made to take naps. Every ailment is treated and the child is trained to work with his peer group—those within three months of his age. It is in the nursery peer group that the rudiments of education and of reverence toward Kim Il-sung begin.

Primary school, almost without cost to the parents, teaches basic skills. Then comes middle school, followed by polytechnic college, and technical high school or a university, depending on the student's aptitudes and on the recommendations of his political unit.

Articles printed about anything include healthy doses of praise for the premier.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Senators baseball team may move from the nation's capital to Dallas-Fort Worth at the end of this season, according to The Washington Post.

The Post quoted an unnamed owner of another club as saying Senators' owner Bob Short "is making it hard for us to deny him permission to move the team. He has caught us in a power play." The Post said Short told his colleagues at an American League owners' meeting last week in Chicago that he has no prospect of paying $3.5 million that will be due on his baseball loans Oct. 31.

Lolich Stops Bosox; Nears 20 - Win Mark

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Vida's been getting all the attention this year, but look who's also pitching a Blue streak—Mickey Lolich.

The Detroit left-hander is the hardest worker in the American League with 270 innings hurled and has compiled 226 strikeouts, a 2.93 earned run average and an 18-8 won-lost record, including Sunday's 8-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

But Lolich has had little chance to scene-steal from Oakland's super southpaw, who nailed down No. 20 Saturday with a 1-0 conquest of the Chicago White Sox.

Never mind. Lolich just keeps rolling along.

Lolich's credentials might even shine more if it weren't for games that exploded in the ninth inning. Five times this year, he's lost leads in the last frame and also lost the victories.

Lolich's victory over Boston kept the Red Sox from gaining ground on pace setting Baltimore in the AL East. The Orioles were beaten 2-1 by the New York Yankees Sunday.

In the other American League games, the Kansas City Royals clouted the Milwaukee Brewers 7-2; the Cleveland Indians trimmed the Washington Senators 6-2; the Minnesota Twins nipped the California Angels 2-1; Chicago spilled Oakland 9-7 in the first game of a doubleheader and beat the A's in the nightcap 3-1.

Lolich, who was nipped for a first-inning run on Carl Yastrzemski's sacrifice fly, ran into familiar ninth-inning trouble when he gave up three hits, including Phil Gagliano's run-scoring double.

But Lolich had more than enough working margin to wriggle out this time. He struck out the last batter and moved closer to the prized 20-victory plateau, something consistently denied him in eight previous major league seasons.

"I've got a good shot at 20," Lolich predicts.

Felipe Alou knocked in the winning run with a pinch-hit single in the ninth inning as

New York rocked Baltimore for the third time in their four-game series.

Alou's line shot to center chased home Roy White, who had opened with a single and moved to second on a sacrifice bunt, and made a winner of young Steve Kline. The game winning hit snapped a 1-1 tie that existed from the first inning.

Dick Drago spaced nine hits and contributed a key, two-run double to pace Kansas City over Milwaukee. Drago broke the game open with his hit after Paul Schaal's double and a walk to Ed Kirkpatrick in the fourth inning.

Drago's hit padded the Royals' lead to 4-1 and provided the eventual winning runs as the Brewers came back in their ninth on Dave May's homer.

Rookie Chris Chambliss knocked in two runs with a single and double and scored once, pacing Cleveland over Washington and Denny McLain, who lost for the 16th time in 22 decisions.

McLain had a two-hit shutout through five innings before the Indians reached the former Cy Young winner for two runs in the sixth on run scoring singles by Chambliss and John Lowenstein. Chambliss then capped a two-run seventh with his double that bounced into the left field seats at RFK Stadium.

Leo Cardenas drilled a tie breaking homer with two out in the ninth to lift Minnesota over California.

Walt Williams' two-run double and Mike Andrews' two-run single keyed a six-run Chicago fifth inning in the opener and Wilbur Wood checked Oakland on five hits in the second game for his 14th victory.

Niekro's New Pitch Stumps Mets

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Rip Sewell, formerly of the Pittsburgh Pirates, popularized the "eephus" pitch. Steve Hamilton of the San Francisco Giants became famous for the "fally floater." And now there's Phil Niekro of the Atlanta Braves and the "goo-goo" delivery.

Niekro, whose elusive knuckleball has been baffling National League batters for the past few years, added the tantalizing "goo-goo" pitch to his repertoire this season.

Sunday, he used both to their full effectiveness, hurling the Braves to a 5-0 victory over the New York Mets, the team that had bombarded Atlanta pitching for 20 runs and 21 hits Saturday night.

Elsewhere in the National League, San Francisco and Chicago split a doubleheader, the Giants winning the opener 4-2 in 11 innings and the Cubs taking the nightcap 8-0; Philadelphia and Pittsburgh also divided a twinbill, the Phils capturing the first game 3-2 and losing the second 4-0; Cincinnati downed Montreal 6-3; Los Angeles defeated St. Louis 4-2, and San Diego edged Houston 3-2.

Niekro's delivery was given its name by his teammate, pitcher Bob Priddy. It floats toward the plate about 10 or 12 feet off the ground, then breaks away from right-handed batters and in to the left-handed swingers.

Against the Mets, however, Niekro got the last laugh. The veteran right-hander allowed only four hits—all singles—struck out seven, including Tommie Agee four times, and walked three in raising his record to 12-8.

The only Met to solve his mystifying "goo-goo" pitch was Duffy Dyer, who tapped a single into left center field in the third inning.

For the game's final out, Niekro again used his bloop delivery, getting Ken Boswell on a fly ball to center.

The Braves nipped Charlie Williams for a run in the first inning on Felix Millan's triple and Ralph Garr's sacrifice fly, and added four runs in the second, with Millan and Hank Aaron each rapping two-run singles. Aaron now has hit safely in 16 consecutive games.

Chicago's Billy Williams smashed three two-run homers, including two in the nightcap, and Glenn Beckert had seven hits in nine at-bats raising his batting average to a league leading .3573 in the Cubs' split with the Giants.

The Giants ended a six-game losing streak, winning the opener on Chris Speier's two-run single in the 11th and Gaylord Perry's five-hit pitching.

Williams' two homers, increasing his season's total to 21, and Beckert's four hits backed Milt Pappas' six-hit hurling in the second game. It was Pappas' second straight shutout.

Beckert's productive day put him a fraction of a percentage point ahead of St. Louis' Joe Torre in the batting race. Torre had 1-for-4 against Los Angeles and dropped to .3566.

Torre's hit was only one of three the Cards collected against Don Sutton and Jim Brewer, who got the final out. The Dodgers' Jim Lefebvre broke a 1-1 tie with a three-run homer in the eighth off Jerry Reuss.

Willie Montanez' two-run homer, his 24th, helped Philadelphia edge Pittsburgh in their first game. Woodie Fryman blanked the Pirates on four hits until four consecutive singles with two out in the ninth accounted for two runs. Joe Hoerner struck out pinch hitter Vic Davalillo for the final out.

In the second game, Bob Johnson scattered eight hits for his first National League shutout and Gene Alley belted a solo homer for the Pirates.

Cincinnati's Lee May broke a 3-3 tie with his second homer of the game and 32nd of the season, a three-run shot in the ninth off Montreal's John Strohman. It followed singles by Pete Rose and pinch hitter Jimmy Stewart.

May cracked his first homer of the game in the opening inning scoring Rose, who had singled. John Bateman and Ron Hunt homered for Montreal.

Nate Colbert drove in two San Diego runs with a homer and a single, while reliever Bob Miller choked off a Houston threat in the eighth inning, striking out Cesar Cedeño with runners on first and third.

Annual Ford PPK Contest Sets Registration Date

Local boys, ages eight through 13, will soon be loosening up their throwing arms and kicking legs for the 1971 Punt, Pass & Kick competition. Registration begins Aug. 16, at Rod Bell Motor Sales.

This year the local level of PPK will be co-sponsored by the American Legion, Hal-Adkins Post 134, Economy Savings & Loan, local radio station and The Circleville Herald, in conjunction with participating Ford dealers in the area.

Nationally PPK, now in its 11th year, is co-sponsored by the National Football League and the Ford Dealers of America. Since it was started in 1961, the program has attracted nearly 7.3 million boys, ages eight through 13, and participation this year is expected to top the one million mark for the fourth year in a row.

Participants in the Punt, Pass & Kick program compete only against boys their own age. Any boy eight through 13 years of age may register to compete at a participating Ford dealer. There is no entrance fee and no body contact during competition. No special equipment is needed and participation does not impair a boy's amateur standing.

Scoring is based on accuracy and range with one point added for every foot of punting, passing and kicking distance and a point subtracted for every foot off a center line.

Twelve national finalists will compete for the national championships in their age group during the half time of the Super Bowl game in New Orleans January 16, 1972. Winners will have their names permanently enshrined in the Pro Football Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio. Their trophies will be presented by Football Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Boys, accompanied by a parent or guardian, may register for PPK at any participating Ford Dealer.

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — A tip from Lee Trevino six weeks ago has been worth nearly $50,000 and a first tournament triumph for American Golf Classic champion Jerry Heard.

"Trevino taught me how to make the ball fade at the U.S. Open. I used to play a hook," said the 24-year-old Visalia, Calif., pro who won the $30,000 Classic first prize Sunday with a 72-hole total of five-under-par 75.

Heard played the first 25 weeks of the 1971 tour. He won a little over $50,000. Since Trevino's tip, the whistling, humming third-year pro has pushed his earnings past the $100,000 mark this year.

"Lee said an idiot could play a fade, so I guess I'll have to play a fade," said Heard, making light of the fact he quit Fresno State College after his third year.

"My studies were interfering with my golf," said Heard after a final round of four-over-par 74 Sunday to beat Dale Douglass by three shots. Douglass had a 72 for a 278 total over the 7,180-yard Firestone South course.

Bob Murphy charged in with a 67 and took third place with 279, one shot ahead of current PGA champion Jack Nicklaus who shot 70 for 280.

Steve Reid was fifth with 71 for 281. Arnold Palmer, Mike Hill and Chi Chi Rodriguez were knotted at 282. Palmer, No. 3 on the money-winning list, fired his best round of the Classic, a 67. Hill and Rodriguez each shot 68.

"I was up at 7 and ready to play. I had no clubs to swing in my room, though. I was really wound up on that first tee," said Heard.

Driving well in his first three rounds, Heard battled an erratic driver in the final round. On his first tee shot, he knocked the ball far to the left into a ditch with water in it. He took a one-stroke penalty and struggled to a bogey five, only his third in 55 holes here.

Heard bogeyed two more holes on the front nine. When he bogeyed the 180-yard 12th hole, his lead over Douglass was down to two strokes.

"The turning point had to be the 14th for me," Heard said. He knocked in a 20-foot putt for a birdie three on the 410-yard No. 14.

"I thought then that I was going to win. I just relaxed," he said.

Trevino's Tip Pays Off As Heard Wins At Akron

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — A tip from Lee Trevino six weeks ago has been worth nearly $50,000 and a first tournament triumph for American Golf Classic champion Jerry Heard.

"Trevino taught me how to make the ball fade at the U.S. Open. I used to play a hook," said the 24-year-old Visalia, Calif., pro who won the $30,000 Classic first prize Sunday with a 72-hole total of five-under-par 75.

Heard played the first 25 weeks of the 1971 tour. He won a little over $50,000. Since Trevino's tip, the whistling, humming third-year pro has pushed his earnings past the $100,000 mark this year.

"Lee said an idiot could play a fade, so I guess I'll have to play a fade," said Heard, making light of the fact he quit Fresno State College after his third year.

Lolich Stops Bosox; Nears 20 - Win Mark

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Vida's been getting all the attention this year, but look who's also pitching a Blue streak—Mickey Lolich.

The Detroit left-hander is the hardest worker in the American League with 270 innings hurled and has compiled 226 strikeouts, a 2.93 earned run average and an 18-8 won-lost record, including Sunday's 8-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

But Lolich has had little chance to scene-steal from Oakland's super southpaw, who nailed down No. 20 Saturday with a 1-0 conquest of the Chicago White Sox.

Never mind. Lolich just keeps rolling along.

Lolich's credentials might even shine more if it weren't for games that exploded in the ninth inning. Five times this year, he's lost leads in the last frame and also lost the victories.

Lolich's victory over Boston kept the Red Sox from gaining ground on pace setting Baltimore in the AL East. The Orioles were beaten 2-1 by the New York Yankees Sunday.

In the other American League games, the Kansas City Royals clouted the Milwaukee Brewers 7-2; the Cleveland Indians trimmed the Washington Senators 6-2; the Minnesota Twins nipped the California Angels 2-1; Chicago spilled Oakland 9-7 in the first game of a doubleheader and beat the A's in the nightcap 3-1.

Lolich, who was nipped for a first-inning run on Carl Yastrzemski's sacrifice fly, ran into familiar ninth-inning trouble when he gave up three hits, including Phil Gagliano's run scoring double.

But Lolich had more than enough working margin to wriggle out this time. He struck out the last batter and moved closer to the prized 20-victory plateau, something consistently denied him in eight previous major league seasons.

"I've got a good shot at 20," Lolich predicts.

Felipe Alou knocked in the winning run with a pinch-hit single in the ninth inning as

New York rocked Baltimore for the third time in their four-game series.

Alou's line shot to center chased home Roy White, who had opened with a single and moved to second on a sacrifice bunt, and made a winner of young Steve Kline. The game winning hit snapped a 1-1 tie that existed from the first inning.

Dick Drago spaced nine hits and contributed a key, two-run double to pace Kansas City over Milwaukee. Drago broke the game open with his hit after Paul Schaal's double and a walk to Ed Kirkpatrick in the fourth inning.

Drago's hit padded the Royal's lead to 4-1 and provided the eventual winning runs as the Brewers came back in their ninth on Dave May's homer.

Rookie Chris Chambliss knocked in two runs with a single and double and scored once, pacing Cleveland over Washington and Denny McLain, who lost for the 16th time in 22 decisions.

McLain had a two-hit shutout through five innings before the Indians reached the former Cy Young winner for two runs in the sixth on run scoring singles by Chambliss and John Lowenstein. Chambliss then capped a two-run seventh with his double that bounced into the left field seats at RFK Stadium.

Leo Cardenas drilled a tie breaking homer with two out in the ninth to lift Minnesota over California.

Walt Williams' two-run double and Mike Andrews' two-run single keyed a six-run Chicago fifth inning in the opener and Wilbur Wood checked Oakland on five hits in the second game for his 14th victory.

Niekro's New Pitch Stumps Mets

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Rip Sewell, formerly of the Pittsburgh Pirates, popularized the "eephus" pitch. Steve Hamilton of the San Francisco Giants became famous for the "folly floater." And now there's Phil Niekro of the Atlanta Braves and the "goo-goo" delivery.

Niekro, whose elusive knuckleball has been baffling National League batters for the past few years, added the tantalizing "goo-goo" pitch to his repertoire this season.

Sunday, he used both to their full effectiveness, hurling the Braves to a 5-0 victory over the New York Mets, the team that had bombarded Atlanta pitching for 20 runs and 21 hits Saturday night.

Elsewhere in the National League, San Francisco and Chicago split a doubleheader, the Giants winning the opener 4-2 in 11 innings and the Cubs taking the nightcap 8-0; Philadelphia and Pittsburgh also divided a twinbill, the Phils capturing the first game 3-2 and losing the second 4-0; Cincinnati downed Montreal 6-3; Los Angeles defeated St. Louis 4-2, and San Diego edged Houston 3-2.

Niekro's delivery was given its name by his teammate, pitcher Bob Priddy. It floats to ward the plate about 10 or 12 feet off the ground, then breaks away from right-handed batters and in to the left-handed swingers.

Against the Mets, however, Niekro got the last laugh. The veteran right-hander allowed only four hits—all singles—struck out seven, including Tommie Agee four times, and walked three in raising his record to 12-8.

The only Met to solve his mystifying "goo-goo" pitch was Duffy Dyer, who tapped a single into left center field in the third inning.

For the game's final out, Niekro again used his bloop delivery, getting Ken Boswell on a fly ball to center.

The Braves nicked Charlie Williams for a run in the first inning on Felix Millan's triple and Ralph Garr's sacrifice fly, and added four runs in the second, with Millan and Hank Aaron each rapping two-run singles. Aaron now has hit safely in 16 consecutive games.

Chicago's Billy Williams smashed three two-run homers, including two in the nightcap, and Glenn Beckert had seven hits in nine at-bats raising his batting average to a league leading .3573 in the Cubs' split with the Giants.

The Giants ended a six-game losing streak, winning the opener on Chris Speier's two-run single in the 11th and Gaylord Perry's five-hit pitching.

Williams' two homers, increasing his season's total to 21, and Beckert's four hits backed Milt Pappas' six-hit hurling in the second game. It was Pappas' second straight shutout.

Beckert's productive day put him a fraction of a percentage point ahead of St. Louis' Joe Torre in the batting race. Torre had 1-for-4 against Los Angeles and dropped to .3566.

Torre's hit was only one of three the Cards collected against Don Sutton and Jim Brewer, who got the final out. The Dodgers' Jim Lefebvre broke a 1-1 tie with a three-run homer in the eighth off Jerry Reuss.

Willie Montanez' two-run homer, his 24th, helped Philadelphia edge Pittsburgh in their first game. Woodie Fryman blanked the Pirates on four hits until four consecutive singles with two out in the ninth accounted for two runs. Joe Hoerner struck out pinch hitter Vic Davalillo for the final out.

In the second game, Bob Johnson scattered eight hits for his first National League shutout and Gene Alley belted a solo homer for the Pirates.

Cincinnati's Lee May broke a 3-3 tie with his second homer of the game and 32nd of the season, a three-run shot in the ninth off Montreal's John Strohmayr. It followed singles by Pete Rose and pinch hitter Jimmy Stewart.

May cracked his first homer of the game in the opening inning scoring Roy, who had singled. John Bateman and Ron Hunt homered for Montreal.

Nate Colbert drove in two San Diego runs with a homer and a single, while reliever Bob Miller choked off a Houston threat in the eighth inning, striking out Cesar Cedeño with runners on first and third.

K Of C Downs CAP In Mosquito Playoff Contest

Knights of Columbus won over Circle Auto Parts, 7-4, in the second Mosquito league playoff game Sunday.

Jerry Mogan went all the way for the Knights giving up three hits, walking five and striking out 13.

Allison clubbed a homerun for the winners as Mogan hit the ball three times and Blue got one hit.

Imier and Gifford were hurling the ball for CAP giving up seven hits, striking out nine and walking eight.

Fuller, Dawson and Ty Caudell all had hits for CAP.

AL Blanks Hawks In Major Tilt

American Legion shutout The Herald Hawks, 12-0, in a rescheduled major league game played Saturday.

Mike Mahoney was the winning pitcher for the Legion giving up three hits, walking three and fanning eight.

Baranick cracked a triple and a double for the winners as McGuire hit a double.

Cline and Williams were on the mound for the Hawks walking 11, striking out nine.

Berger and Brown had the hits for Hawks.

Annual Ford PPK Contest Sets Registration Date

Local boys, ages eight through 13, will soon be loosening up their throwing arms and kicking legs for the 1971 Punt, Pass & Kick competition. Registration begins Aug. 16, at Rod Bell Motor Sales.

This year the local level of PPK will be co-sponsored by the American Legion, Hal-Adkins Post 134, Economy Savings & Loan, local radio station and The Circleville Herald, in conjunction with participating Ford dealers in the area.

Nationally PPK, now in its 11th year, is co-sponsored by the National Football League and the Ford Dealers of America. Since it was started in 1961, the program has attracted nearly 7.3 million boys, ages eight through 13, and participation this year is expected to top the one million mark for the fourth year in a row.

Participants in the Punt, Pass & Kick program compete only against boys their own age. Any boy eight through 13 years of age may register to compete at a participating Ford dealer. There is no entrance fee and no body contact during competition. No special equipment is needed and participation does not impair a boy's amateur standing.

Scoring is based on accuracy and range with one point added for every foot of punting, passing and kicking distance and a point subtracted for every foot off a center line.

Twelve national finalists will compete for the national championships in their age group during the half time of the Super Bowl Game in New Orleans January 16, 1972. Winners will have their names permanently enshrined in the Pro Football Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio. Their trophies will be presented by Football Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Boys, accompanied by a parent or guardian, may register for PPK at any participating Ford Dealer.

Trevino's Tip Pays Off As Heard Wins At Akron

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — A tip from Lee Trevino six weeks ago has been worth nearly $50,000 and a first tournament triumph for American Golf Classic champion Jerry Heard.

"Trevino taught me how to make the ball fade at the U.S. Open. I used to play a hook," said the 24-year-old Visalia, Calif., pro who won the $30,000 Classic first prize Sunday with a 72-hole total of five-under-par 75.

Heard played the first 25 weeks of the 1971 tour. He won a little over $50,000. Since Trevino's tip, the whistling, humming third-year pro has pushed his earnings past the $100,000 mark this year.

Steve Reid was fifth with 71 for 281. Arnold Palmer, Mike Hill and Chi Chi Rodriguez were knotted at 282. Palmer, No. 3 on the money-winning list, fired his best round of the Classic, a 67. Hill and Rodriguez each shot 68.

"I was up at 7 and ready to play. I had no clubs to swing in my room, though. I was really wound up on that first tee," said Heard.

Driving well in his first three rounds, Heard battled an erratic driver in the final round. On his first tee shot, he knocked the ball far to the left into a ditch with water in it. He took a one-stroke penalty and struggled to a bogey five, only his third in 55 holes here.

Heard bogeyed two more holes on the front nine. When he bogeyed the 180-yard 12th hole, his lead over Douglass was down to two strokes.

"The turning point had to be the 14th for me," Heard said.

He knocked in a 20-foot putt for a birdie three on the 410-yard No. 14.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Senators baseball team may move from the nation's capital to Dallas-Fort Worth at the end of this season, according to The Washington Post.

The Post quoted an unnamed owner of another club as saying Senators' owner Bob Short "is making it hard for us to deny him permission to move the team. He has caught us in a power play." The Post said Short told his colleagues at an American League owners' meeting last week in Chicago that he has no prospect of paying $3.5 million that will be due on his baseball loans Oct. 31.

Plunkett's Debut Spoiled As Vikings Drop Patriots

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

About the only thing that marred Heisman Trophy winner Jim Plunkett's pro football debut with the New England Patriots was that his team lost.
"I wish we could have won," the rookie quarterback said after the Patriots were defeated 17-10 by the Minnesota Vikings in one of two exhibition games
Sunday. Plunkett entered the
to play, completed two of three passes but couldn't spark the New England offense that was throttled by the marauding Viking front four.

The Patriots managed to break into Minnesota territory only once in the first half and scored their lone touchdown on Clarence Scott's 23-yard interception return of a Bob Lee pass. Short carries by Jim Lindsey and Dave Osborn and a field goal by Fred Cox accounted for Minnesota's scoring.

Quarterback John Brodie and receiver Gene Washington combined for two long scoring plays as the San Francisco 49ers inaugurated play in their new Candlestick Park home with a 38-24 thrashing of the Cleveland Browns. Mike
Phipps, the Browns' starting signal caller, also rifled two touchdown passes.

In Saturday's contests, the Chicago Bears forced Green

Bay quarterback Frank Patrick into his own end zone for a safety and then held on to edge the Packers 2-0. Super Bowl champion Baltimore failed to avenge a loss to Kansas City early last season and wound up on the short end of a 10-7 score.
Colts Coach Don McCafferty blamed his team's defeat on "a case of guys being opened and not getting hit."

Quarterback Ken Anderson
tossed two fourth-quarter touchdown passes to power Cincinnati to a 27-10 triumph over Miami and the Detroit Lions wiped out an early New York
Jets lead and went on for a 28-21 victory in a game that sidelined Jets quarterback Joe Namath for most of the season with a knee injury.

Exhibition games continue tonight with Houston hosting the
New York Giants and Philadelphia at Oakland.

Plunkett's Debut Spoiled As Vikings Drop Patriots

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

About the only thing that marred Heisman Trophy winner Jim Plunkett's pro football debut with the New England Patriots was that his team lost. "I wish we could have won," the rookie quarterback said after the Patriots were defeated 17-10 by the Minnesota Vikings in one of two exhibition games Sunday. Plunkett entered the game with only 11 minutes left to play, completed two of three passes but couldn't spark the New England offense that was throttled by the marauding Viking front four.

scored their lone touchdown on Clarence Scott's 23-yard interception return of a Bob Lee pass. Short carries by Jim Lindsey and Dave Osborn and a field goal by Fred Cox accounted for Minnesota's scoring.

Quarterback John Brodie and receiver Gene Washington combined for two long scoring plays as the San Francisco 49ers inaugurated play in their new Candlestick Park home with a 38-24 thrashing of the Cleveland Browns. Mike Phipps, the Browns' starting signal caller, also rifled two touchdown passes.

In Saturday's contests, the Chicago Bears forced Green

Bay quarterback Frank Patrick into his own end zone for a safety and then held on to edge the Packers 2-0. Super Bowl champion Baltimore failed to avenge a loss to Kansas City early last season and wound up on the short end of a 10-7 score. Colts Coach Don McCafferty blamed his team's defeat on "a case of guys being opened and not getting hit."

Quarterback Ken Anderson tossed two fourth-quarter touchdowns to power Cincinnati to a 27-10 triumph over Miami and the Detroit Lions wiped out an early New York Jets lead and went on for a 28-21 victory in a game that sidelined Jets quarterback Joe Namath for most of the season with a knee injury.

Exhibition games continue tonight with Houston hosting the New York Giants and Philadelphia at Oakland.

Dickson Wins Atomic Race

Tom Dickson of Marietta became a new winner at Atomic Speedway in the 50-lap supermodified feature and Paul Cohan of Jackson was a repeat winner in a protested super stock main event in the sixth annual Shrine championship Saturday night.

Returning after a runner-up performance in the Buckeye 100 at Atomic a week earlier, Dickson inherited the lead when a balky engine ruined the chance of Bob Papoy of Salem, Ind., for a second victory of the year.

After threading his way from 14th starting position, Dickson took the lead on the 39th lap when Papoy's engine quit and the race had to be slowed to get his car off the track.

Dickson was the fourth leader in the charity race sponsored by the Ross County Shrine Club. Ralph Coil of Washington Court House, whose car was driven by Junior Smalley to victory in the Buckeye 100, was in the lead for the first five laps and Charles McCann of Piketon set the pace until the 27th, when Papoy pushed ahead.

GEORGE Harbour of Apple Grove, W. Va., was the runner-up and Chuck Fletcher of Columbus, was third. They started 10th and 12th.

Complaints that Cohan had outlasted assistance in getting air in a leaking tire when the stock feature was stopped by an accident on the 27th lap were disallowed. Cohan took over the lead from Ron Allen of Circleville on the 11th lap and took the checkered flag ahead of a protesting Dick French of Jackson and Skip Waterman of Columbus.

Jim Vanover led the 35-lap race for the first three laps and Allen for seven until Cohan moved up from his eighth starting position into the lead after winning the consi as the only repeat winner for the night.

In the modifieds Joe Frazier of Chillicothe won the dash, Tucker Nursery of South Point and Harbour the heat races and the consi went to McCann. Bud Frazier of Chillicothe had fast time.

Allen and French were the stock heat winners. Forty-nine cars were signed in.

6-Hour Clash Reported In Lebanon Hills

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Israeli troops battled Palestinian guerrillas for six hours today in the hills of southern Lebanon, commando sources reported in Beirut, the Lebanese capital.

The fighting centered around the village of Hebbariye, on the western slopes of Mt. Hermon. The guerrillas commandos asserted Israeli units moved four miles into Lebanon and opened the attack with armored cars and halftracks.

A spokesman for Al Fatah, the largest guerrillas group said the Palestinians fought back with antitank guns, rockets and machine guns.

Witnesses said the fighting later spread 15 miles north of Hebbariye to the hills overlooking the Lebanese town of Gachaya.

Commando sources in Beirut said there were casualties on both sides but declined to give figures.

The Israeli command declined to comment on the fighting report.

An increasing number of guerrillas have moved into south Lebanon after their defeat by the Jordanian army.

In Egypt, President Anwar Sadat laid down new conditions before he would sign an agreement to reopen the Suez Canal.

He said Israel must agree to withdraw completely from the Sinai peninsula within six months after it begins its withdrawal from the east bank of the Suez Canal.

The Gold Chip Award is given to chapters achieving five consecutive years of chapter growth, community involvement and meeting state requirements. Twenty-six of the 265 chapters in Ohio received the award.

During the All-State, forums on Public Relations, Americanism, Speak-up, Membership and Crime Prevention, as well as a leadership training seminar, were held.

Guardsmen Build Road To Amphitheatre

A National Guard unit from Portsmouth has been assigned to "Operation Sugarloaf," a project for constructing the approach roads and parking areas on Sugarloaf Mountain.

Workmen have entered the forest area which will become the site of an amphitheatre, a project of the Scioto Society Inc. Already crews are removing timber from the area to make way for an access road to the theatre, located off Marietta Road in Ross County.

The Ohio National Guard, under the command of Lt. Col. Sheldon Sharrock, will utilize approximately 150 men per week to build a 2,500 foot road from Marietta Road to the amphitheatre site where the epic outdoor drama "Tecumseh!" is scheduled to premier in the summer of 1972. Total costs for this segment of the operation will run in excess of $200,000.

6-Hour Clash Reported In Lebanon Hills

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli troops battled Palestinian guerrillas for six hours today in the hills of southern Lebanon, commando sources reported in Beirut, the Lebanese capital.

The fighting centered around the village of Hebbariye, on the western slopes of Mt. Hermon. The guerrillas commandos asserted Israeli units moved four miles into Lebanon and opened the attack with armored cars and halftracks.

A spokesman for Al Fatah, the largest guerrillas group said the Palestinians fought back with antitank guns, rockets and machine guns.

Witnesses said the fighting later spread 15 miles north of Hebbariye to the hills overlooking the Lebanese town of Gachaya.

Commando sources in Beirut said there were casualties on both sides but declined to give figures.

The Israeli command declined to comment on the fighting report.

An increasing number of guerrillas have moved into south Lebanon after their defeat by the Jordanian army.

In Egypt, President Anwar Sadat laid down new conditions before he would sign an agreement to reopen the Suez Canal.

He said Israel must agree to withdraw completely from the Sinai peninsula within six months after it begins its withdrawal from the east bank of the Suez Canal.

A National Guard unit from Portsmouth has been assigned to "Operation Sugarloaf," a project for constructing the approach roads and parking areas on Sugarloaf Mountain.

Workmen have entered the forest area which will become the site of an amphitheatre, a project of the Scioto Society Inc. Already crews are removing timber from the area to make way for an access road to the theatre, located off Marietta Road in Ross County.

The Ohio National Guard, under the command of Lt. Col. Sheldon Sharrock, will utilize approximately 150 men per week to build a 2,500 foot road from Marietta Road to the amphitheatre site where the epic outdoor drama "Tecumseh!" is scheduled to premier in the summer of 1972. Total costs for this segment of the operation will run in excess of $200,000.
